HALLOWE'EN FESTIVITIES

Season of Ghosts, Goblins and Witches Lasts Throughout the Week. Parties Given by Numerous Organzations Entertain the Young People

The Hallowe'en season was marked by an unusual number of Hallowe'en parties held throughout the week both by clubs and other organizations, as well as in private homes. Groups of children in grotesque costumes and bearing jack-o-lanterns roamed the streets on Wednesday evening, ringing doorbells and indulging in other mild forms of mischief.

Ghosts walked and the time-honored methods of peering into the future were resorted to by credulous young people. There seemed to be a maximum of fun with the minimum of mischief.

Miss Gladys Dennison of 150 High street, was hostess on last Saturday evening to twenty-four of her young friends.

The house was appropriately decorated for Hallowe'en, and Hallowe'en games were played.

Refreshments of sandwiches, ice cream and cake were served.

Miss Alice Gray entertained Mrs. John A. Burtt's Sunday school class of the South church, at a Hallowe'en party given at her home on Chestnut street last Friday evening. It is the custom of the members to meet at one another's homes once each month and it fell to Miss Gray's lot to be the hostess the last week in October so that Hallowe'en stunts were enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

Among those present were: President, Dorothy Douglas; vice president, Frances Hall; secretary, Alice Gray; Susan Ripley, Georgina Cromie, June Hinman, Helen Saunders, Jeanette Meehan, Lucy Sanborn, and Mrs. John A. Burtt.

The friends of Miss Katherine Sweeney, were entertained at a costume party held at her home on High street Wednesday evening. They were greeted at the door by a ghost, which was full of strange tricks and gave the young people many surprises.

Refreshments were served and a jolly evening was spent.

Those present were Doris Manning, Edith Johnson, Helen Saunders, Josephine Hurley, Dorothy Welch, Jeanette Meehan, Arline Meehan, Frances Hall, Marie Riley, Margaret Collins, Katherine Sweeney, Rita Sweeney, Francis Sweeney and Joseph Davis.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Emerson on Park street, Miss Madeline Rice entertained several members of her Campfire group at a Hallowe'en party. Here also the house was prettily decorated

HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Members of Andover Historical Society Hear Interesting Talk on Silhouettes, by Rev. Glenn Tilley Morse

It is said that everyone collects something whether it be stamps, buttons, china, jewels, old masters, clothes, or mere dollars. The hobby of the Rev. Glenn Tilley Morse of West Newburry is silhouettes, and on Monday evening he showed a part of his remarkable collection at the annual meeting of the Andover Historical society, held in the Free church parish house.

There were black silhouettes on a white background, white silhouettes on a black background, black silhouettes touched with gold, and even with color, silhouettes cut out of paper, and silhouettes painted or drawn on paper, parchment, glass, ivory, china, plaster and wax.

Some of the figures were painted on convex glass, casting the likeness in shadow on the background, and one, a full-length figure, was dressed in real clothes. The pictures had a variety of frames which added interest to the collection.

Mr. Morse gave a short history of the silhouette which is one of the oldest arts and dates back to the farthest antiquity. The shepherds of Arcady traced the silhouettes of their sweethearts in the sand, and silhouettes have been found on the mummy cases of Egypt.

The art was practiced long before the time of Etienne de Silhouette, a French Minister of Finance in 1759, for whom this method of taking a likeness was named. The art flourished particularly between 1755 and 1835, after which it was pushed out by the daguerreotype and photograph. The free-hand work was also supplemented by various mechanical devices, both for drawing the silhouette and reducing its size. Mr. Morse exhibited a frame for taking silhouettes used in Salem, more than one hundred years ago.

Among the particularly interesting silhouettes was one of Queen Victoria, made in 1830, and one of Fannie Burney and her family, made in 1765.

At a short business meeting held before the lecture, reports were given by the secretary, Miss Helen Eaton, by the treasurer, George Abbot, and by the librarian, John V. Holt. Miss Eaton mentioned the loss to the society in the death of Miss Ella Cheever and Miss Charlotte Swift. The treasurer reported a slight gain in current funds as well as a gain in life-membership and the Carter

Rabies Epidemic Assumes Alarming Proportions

Do you realize that there have been seven cases of rabies in Andover in the last two weeks and that there have been more than 30 cases reported within the last ten months? In the neighboring city of Lawrence a new case is reported on the average of one a day.

Not long ago the police ordered all dogs either restrained or inoculated, but since the order was withdrawn the disease continues to spread.

It is recommended that all owners immediately have their dogs inoculated against rabies as it is probable that some drastic action will soon be taken to prevent dogs which are liable to the disease to run at large.

Dumb rabies with which the dogs have been afflicted is said to have spread across the continent from Alaska, where it is prevalent among wolves from which the dogs caught the contagion.

Whist for Benefit of Legion Auxiliary

Representatives of Auxiliaries to Woman's Board of Missions Meet for All-Day Session in the South Church Yesterday. Officers Elected

"The best way to make people better Americans is to make them Christians," said Rev. O. Gawa of Los Angles, minister of the largest Japanese church in this country, and speaker at the annual meeting of the Andover and Woburn Branch of the Woman's Board of Missions held at the South church yesterday. Other speakers were Miss Alice M. Kyle who propounded a plan for bringing together the women of the nations, and Rev. Hilton Pedley, D. D., of Kyoto, Japan.

Representatives were present from auxiliaries in Reading, Wakefield, Winchester, Woburn, Medford, West Medford, Melrose, Melrose Highlands, Wilmington, Lawrence, Methuen, Lowell, North Andover and Dracut.

The morning session was called to order by Miss Josephine Wilcox at half past ten and the devotional service was led by Miss Jane Carpenter with the subject, "Friends of Jesus."

The reports of the secretaries and treasurer were given after which a symposium on "The Work of Our Auxiliaries" was conducted by Mrs. Harry Francis Smith.

Speakers from West Medford, Malden, Wakefield, Lowell, Methuen, North Andover, and Andover gave many helpful suggestions for increasing membership, arousing the interest of young people, Sunday-school work, mission study classes, and the making of a thank offering. One of the most helpful suggestions was that of dividing the auxiliaries geographically into smaller circles, each unit contributing to an efficient whole.

Miss Alice Kyle of the Woman's Board thanked the previous speakers for the suggestions for bringing young people together in mission study as she considered work among young people the strategic point in bringing together the women of the nations.

She then unfolded a plan for utilizing the spiritual forces of womanhood in the world and enlisting all Christian women in a federation to work for righteousness. The agencies to be employed in this world movement are prayer, intelligence and cooperation. She urged her hearers to pray for a closer drawing together of Christian women in their work for civic righteousness, temperance, the sanctity of the home, the education of children and the protection of women and children in industry, to receive with an

Gloria Swanson Coming

Gloria Swanson's new Paramount picture "Bluebeard's 8th Wife," which will be shown at the local theatre next Monday and Tuesday, November 5, 6, is said to be one of the most powerful screen dramas produced by Paramount this season.

Miss Swanson has the role of Mona de-Briac, a French girl whose parents are in financial difficulties. Their last straw is to marry Mona to a rich man. John Brandon, an American multi-millionaire, played by Huntley Gordon, is chosen as the intended husband. The marriage takes place and many thrilling incidents follow.

The climax of the picture is unique. The supporting cast is excellent and includes, among other prominent screen artists, Charles Greene, Paul Weigel and Robert Agnew.

TREMONT TEMPLE

The Universal production of Victor Hugo's immortal masterpiece, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," is making history at the Tremont Temple, Boston, through the remarkable impression it has made upon all lovers of the best in art and drama. It is rich in every element that goes to make for perfection in acomplishment in a field that has produced many an impressive harvest, yet there must be one masterpiece that excels all others, and this production has been hailed with that honor.

Given the tremendous story by Hugo, who placed his scene in Paris of the 15th century when everyday life was freighted to overflowing with drama, the master writer built a love romance of surpassing action. The mighty events of that era when civilization was asserting itself and conquering the barbarism to which life had descended after hundreds of years of warfare were inspiration to the author and a magazine from which to draw plenitude of authentic incidents to clothe his drama.

He presents the love affair of Captain Phoebus of the army of Louis XI, an adventurer and pleasure devotee, who surrenders to the charms of Esmeralda, a gypsy girl and ward of the king of Parisian thieves and beggars. It is a love of exquisite charm, and as principal foil, the author has evolved in Quasimodo, the deformed bell-ringer, the most prodigous character in all fiction. Thus beauty and hideousness march in a drama so freighted with action that the spectator sits in enthrallment throughout its course.

In the achievement of the producers of "The Hunchback" there is a bigness of picturing, a perfection of artistry and historical accuracy that its being hailed as the greatest that the wonder-screen has eve reflected is merited. No such mighty scenes ever were pictured. It is like investing the spectator with a magical property that enables history to unroll and provides a viewpoint from which to see events as the actually were. Thus every member of the family, from the youthful scholar to the elderly philosopher, will find a rich endowment in the viewing.

The showings are given twice daily a 2:30 and 8:15 p.m. All seats are reserved and special attention will be given to all mail orders.

Baptist Church Sorority Formed

A very pleasant occasion took place at the home of Mrs. Clare Norton on Elm street, Monday evening when twelve young ladies who are in her Sunday school class met and formed a secret sorority to be known as the C. P. J. sorority of the Baptist church. Officers were elected as follows: Dora Dennison, president; Irene Curtin, vice president; Dorothy Stevens, secretary; Gladys Dennison, treasurer; Edna Albers, chairman of the devotional committee; Hilda Rice, chairman of the relief committee; Gertrude Bernstein chairman of the social committee.

Following the business meeting, a social was held, in the form of a Hallowe'en party and everyone enjoyed herself to the utmost, playing games and doing stunts appropr ate to the season. The house was very prettily decorated with witches, cats and goblins, and the dining table was very attractively arranged. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The Challenge of Youth, by Principal Stearns — An Appreciation

There is no people in the world through whose mind flows such a volume of printed matter as flows daily through the mind of Americans. No less than 21,000 separate publications are issued from the press of this country every twelve months. Twelve million daily papers, 19,000,000 evening papers, 15,000,000 Sunday papers — such is the statistical record of supply to our reading public. Books on every conceivable subject clamor for recognition from an already overfed public. In view of this fact what incentive can one have for adding to this number? What chance has he that his book will elbow its way into our already overcrowded minds? Or, having found entrance, that it will grip and modify it? This query takes on strength when the new book is known to run counter to popular ideas and popular expectations.

Prevailing ideas get themselves expressed in law, in institutions, in brick and mortar, in customs and usages and often involve enormous investments in capital. Hence the writer, whose ideas run counter to all these popular and invested interests, must expect to encounter more opposition than hospitality from the reading public. But it is the nature of certain ideas, when projected by a strong personality, to gain precedence over all others and to dominate them. Such ideas are always elemental and in the long run revolutionary. Opposition serves only to deepen them but can never uproot them. Such, for instance, was Calvin's idea of church democracy. It ran counter to the prevailing idea of church aristocracy but it slowly gained rootage and the Republic of Switzerland is the result. Cromwell's idea of representative government was opposed to the prevailing ideas of autocratic kings, but it "rewrote the English constitution." Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom" embodied ideas unpopular at the time but they rooted themselves so deeply into the nation's heart that 3,000 battle fields failed to dig them out.

An idea of God as Sovereign, of the world as under moral law, of man constituted in God's image therefore fundamentally right, of society purified and strengthened through discipline — such ideas as these always run counter to popular thought. Nevertheless no TNT holds within it such dynamic energy. These ideas are not new; they have been the formative ideas of the ages, but in our day they are less in evidence than formerly. They have become so intertwined with sentimentalism, so incrustated with the love of ease and luxury, so hidden by the glamor of material success as to be well-nigh inoperative. Hence the distinctive service rendered by Principal Stearns in his new book is that he seizes upon these basal ideas, strips from them all camouflage and builds them anew into the life of our modern youth. Passing through the alembic of his own consecrated life, seasoned and tested by vital contact with youth for 30 years, these elementary and lasting verities come to the reader tinged with his vitalized personality. They are no longer abstractions of academic interest residing in the upper space, but they take on flesh and blood, warm and surcharged with human sympathy. This is why they grip the nobler side of the reader at once and never relax this grip from start to finish. So closely does he hew to the moral law and spiritual ideals that the reader feels himself to be walking on bed-rock midst a swirling stream of doubt and perplexity of ideas.

Principal Stearns has tremendous faith in present-day youth. His phenomenal affection for them is builded upon this faith. He looks upon their higher, never upon their lower selves. To bring their higher selves into action he would spare no discipline however severe. He would have every young man to be the master of his own soul; a master of ignorance, of heredity, of circumstances, of environment, of failure, of his shifting moods and of fear of every kind. In the accomplishment of this self-realization he finds no place for coddling nor for mushy sentimentalism. To his mind wrong-doing merits punishment and should have it, and when rightly accepted such punishment is packed with curatives. Mr. Stearns would never send flowers to a criminal.

In writing this book he has cut clean down to the line of Andover's best traditions and has thus become a strong link in the chain of Andover authorship.

Such books give continuity and unity to our town and at the same time enlarge and enrich our inspirational sources.

That his book will find its way into many lives over this broad land and prove a beacon light to parents and teachers now groping amidst beclouded ideals must be the expectation and earnest desire of every reader of its pages.

Civil Service Examination to Be Held

State Commissioner of Civil Service, Payson Dana, announces competitive examinations to be held November 23, for Chief Engineer in the Metropolitan District Commission, Division of Metropolitan Planning, Fuel Engineer in the State Department of Administration and Finance, and for Psychiatric Social Worker (Female) in the State Department of Mental Diseases.

The salary for Chief Engineer is to be $5000 per year. Applicants must be not less than 35 years of age. Applicants should be civil engineers who have had wide experience in an executive capacity with matters dealing with transportation and city planning. They should also be competent to make general estimates of constructions of highways, trolleys, railroads, etc., and to be familiar with the present plans of various Planning boards and State boards dealing with highways, rapid transit, and terminal matters.

The Fuel Engineer's salary will be from $2820 to $4200 per year. The duties of the position are to assist in the purchase of coal and fuel and lubricating oil and to supervise the delivery; to inspect and report upon power plant equipment and personnel, and make any changes which may seem advisable. Applicants should have experience in purchasing coal. Applicants should have knowledge of coal analysis, and experience in supervising power, heating and electrical plants and installing new equipment. They should also have at least ten years experience in a similar supervisory position.

The social worker is to supervise and care for committed cases of feeble-minded persons living in the community and to make district surveys and gather data relative to resources etc., which may be utilized in the supervision work. High school education plus special education in social work is required.

In one of the towns on the Pacific Coast an earthquake shock was felt recently, and when the municipal building rocked perceptibly the city fathers, then in session, left without bothering about the usual formulas.

The city clerk, a man of rules and regulations, was hard put to it to give his minutes the proper official tone. Finally he evolved this masterpiece:

"On motion of the City Hall, the Council adjourned."

Adopt Resolution on Enforcement of Prohibition Law

Characterizing the non-enforcement of the National prohibition law as "a disgrace to our communities and our state," the Andover association of Congregational churches and ministers assembled at their fall meeting in the Trinitarian church, North Andover, Tuesday unanimously adopted a reolution condemning the lawlessness prevalent at the present time and warning candidates for public office that they cannot expect to receive votes of church members unless they stand for the fullest enforcement of the law. The resolution was offered by Rev. E. Victor Bigelow of the South church. It was voted that a copy of the resolution should be sent to every Congregational minister in the district in order that he may call it to the attention of his parishioners.

Among the ministers who addressed the meeting on this subject were: Rev. Ernest C. Bartlett of Chelmsford, Rev. E. Victor Bigelow of Andover, Rev. Herbert G. Mank, Ph. D., of Lawrence, Rev. Arthur Barber of Lawrence, Rev. Percy E. Thomas of Lowell, and Rev. A. S. Wheelock of Andover. Rev. Newman Matthews of Andover presided at the meeting as moderator. Rev. A. H. Fuller of Ballardvale is secretary of the association.

The following resolution on Law Enforcement offered by Rev. E. Victor Bigelow of Andover, was unanimously adopted:

"In view of the prevalence of so much lawlessness in our communities and in view of the fact that the prohibition law is a part of the Constitution of the United States and in view of the fact that the non-enforcement of the 18th Amendment is a disgrace to our communities and our state, this Andover association of Congregational churches and ministers in fall meeting assembled hereby calls the attention of our churches to the importance of our being definitely lined up with the forces of Law and Order.

"We recognize the duty and the responsibility of every church member to vote and no candidate for public office can expect our support who does not stand for the fullest and completest enforcement of the law.

"A copy of this resolution shall be sent to every Congregational minister in the Andover association that he may bring it to the attention of his people."

Let your boy roam the woods with Hiawatha, sail the seas with Sindbad, build stockades with Crusoe, fight dragons with Jason, break a lance with Galahad; let him play at quoits with Odysseus, and at football with Tom Brown. "Tell me what company thou keepest and I will tell thee what thou art", says the old Spanish proverb. The child who lives on terms of intimacy with such heroes as these, cannot fail to be strong and true.

Replies to Warren K. Moorehead

The following editorial headed "It Is for to Laugh," replying to a recent communication from Warren K. Moorehead published in these columns was clipped from The Morning Examiner printed in Bartlesville, Oklahoma, on October 28.

Dr. J. P. Torrey tried to correct some of the erroneous impressions the people of his old home, Andover, Mass., entertain in regard to Oklahoma in a recent letter to the Andover Townsman. His letter was used as the basis of an attack upon Oklahoma by one Warren K. Moorehead. Among other things Mr. Moorehead says:

"Concerning the Governor of Oklahoma, as Doctor Torrey states, probably many things done by him should have been left undone. He may have pardoned criminals from the penitentiary. At the same time, he has showed courage and backbone in attempting to curb the activities of the Ku Klux Klan and those who have swindled and despoiled the poor Indians. This latter has become a national scandal."

Mr. Moorehead may have known something of early day Indian history, but for making unique discoveries he takes first rank. Jack Walton will doubtless be surprised to find himself lauded as a champion of the despoiled Indian. As a despoiler Jack has some reputation, if legislative findings are half true, but he has to go far away from home to get a reputation as a protector of the swindled and despoiled. It is for to laugh.

Oklahoma is engaged in attempting first things first. Oklahomen are aware there are other things to do than try Governor Walton before the senate but it does not propose to confuse issues, even if residents of other states do insist.

Masonic Club Holds Dance

The first of a series of dances to be held this winter, under the direction of the Andover Masonic club was enjoyed in the town hall which was comfortably filled, on Tuesday evening, with a congenial crowd of members of the club and their wives and friends. Campbell's orchestra furnished the music, and the stage was attractively decorated with palms and Hallowe'en colors of orange and black.

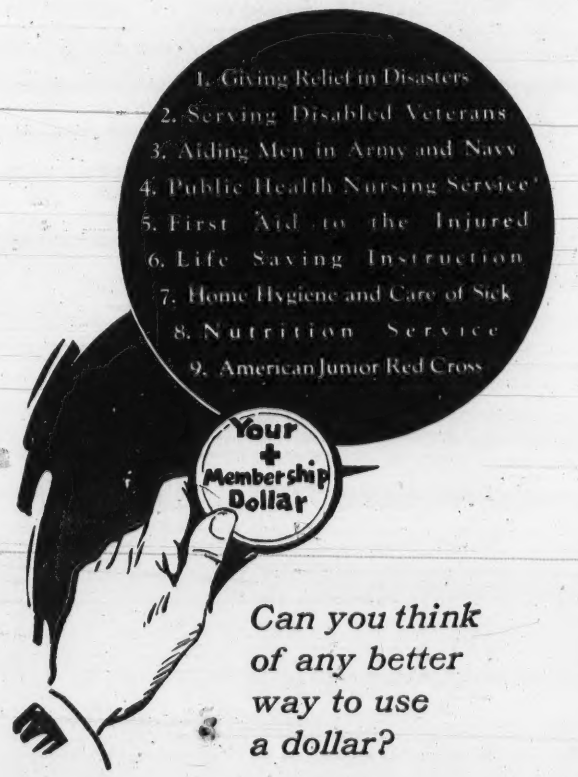

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. David Coutts, Mr. and Mrs. James Gillespie, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Everett Lundgren, Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Hulme, Samuel B. Hulme, Miss Alice Gill, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. A book which tells one how to get hours and hours of fun out of material usually wasted is twice valuable—it saves dollars for parents who have not many to spend, and it shows the children that a toy store and a full purse are not necessary for amusement if one is a person of ideas.

funds. The proceeds of the Historical Loan exhibition, which do not appear in this year's report, were $250. This was particularly gratifying, as the loan exhibition was not primarily a money-making venture. There have been many acquisitions added to the society's collection, including various articles from the Ballard estate.

The nominating committee, George T. Eaton, Mrs. Frank H. Hardy and Miss Ella Holt, presented their report and officers were elected as follows: President, Dr. Charles E. Abbott; first vice president, Mrs. Matthew S. McCurdy; second vice president, John V. Holt; treasurer, George Abbot; secretary, Mrs. Benjamin R. Bradley; librarian, Miss Helen Eaton; directors, Miss Bell J. Butterfield, William A. Trow, Rev. F. A. Wilson, Omar P. Chase, Miss Clara A. Putnam.

An amendment to Article 4 of the By-laws was made. After the words, "shall be controlled," the following clause was added, "This council of five members shall be elected, two for three years, two for two years, and one for one year. All subsequent vacancies shall be filled for a term of three years." This amendment will be effective this year, the directors balloting among themselves, to determine who shall serve the one, two or three-year terms.

Refreshments of coffee, doughnuts, cheese, and cookies were served by Mrs. Frank M. Foster, assisted by Mrs. Joseph Hall. Mrs. David Lindsay, Mrs. George Christie and Mrs. Thaxter Eaton.

Punchard 12 — Danvers 0

Punchard journeyed to Danvers Saturday and won from the high school of that place by the score of 12 to 0. Punchard did all its scoring in the third period. Capt. Pratt ran the kick-off the length of the field for the first touchdown.

Although outweighed Punchard had the fight and took advantage of the breaks. Both touchdowns were scored in the third period. One when Banty Pratt received the kickoff and raced down the side lines for a 75-yard trip for a touchdown. This certainly took the opposing team by surprise, some of the team not knowing what happened until they saw the ball planted behind the goal line.

Mears scored the second touchdown on an end run for 20 yards. These two runs were the features of the game.

Guerin was the big man for Danvers, and did most of the backfield work and proved adept at throwing forward passes, several of which were dangerous. For Punchard, Dyer hit the line hard and made several substantial gains. On the line, Stevenson was a tower of strength and opened holes for the peppy backs to enter. Adams made several attempts at end runs and made good gains. Souter as usual played a stellar game at the quarterback position. Coutts intercepted a forward pass at the end of the third period that saved Punchard from being scored on as Danvers was on the way for a score.

Although Danvers' backs hit the line hard Punchard was the better at line plunging and gained more ground in this way. In the last part of the fourth period Guerin made a vain attempt for a field goal which ended all hope of the team's scoring.

Danvers had the breaks in the first period when a Punchard player fumbled the ball on the kickoff and with the ball within striking distance of the goal fumbled the ball on the second play. Adams shot around end for a first down and Pratt and Dyer plunged past the center of the field only to lose the ball when Guerin intercepted a forward pass. After Flynn made 18 yards on a forward pass and Guerin made no gain Pitman fumbled and Adams fell on the ball. Although Danvers had the best of the second period the breaks were with Punchard and with Punchard having the ball on her own four-yard line the half ended.

Ranson's punting for Danvers was a feature of the game and his punt behind Punchard's goal line at the end of the second period came near being a set-back for the visitors.

Police Court Notes

James Femia of Arlington was arrested last Friday by the Andover police, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. The machine in which he was riding and that of Henry Hilton of this town, collided near the Rubber shop. No one was hurt, but both machines were damaged. He appeared in police court on Saturday and was fined $25.

Joseph Lovejoy, Jr., of Cambridge, one of the trio who figured in the theft of the automobile which ran into the electric light standard on Main street on October 20, appeared in Andover police court charged with carrying a loaded revolver. He was released after the payment of $81.14, the sum needed for the restitution of the lights and so forth broken at the time of the accident.

Owen Mack of Stevens street was arrested by Officer Napier and charged with drunkenness. He was fined $5.

William Boyd of Higgins court was arrested and charged with drunkeness and disturbing the peace. He was fined $5.

An automobile stolen from L. E. Batchelder of Park street, North Reading on Wednesday was recovered on School street Andover, Thursday morning.

An automobile owned by Frederic G. Moore and stolen from the South church green on last Friday evening, was recov red late that night in Tewksbury. It is said to have been appropriated by John Berry 16, Randall Hurley 14, and John J. Timony 15. They were scared away when about to break and enter a store in Tewksbury, and taking a second car, owned by John H. Dwyer of Lowell, were pursued and arrested by the state police. They were arraigned in Lowell court, charged with the unlawful appropriation of an automobile, and their case was continued until today, with bail fixed at $500, for each of the youths.

Red Cross Membership Drive

The annual Red Cross membership drive all over the country will start on Armistice Day, November 11, and will last for a month. It will be opened by a brief appeal by Dr. Claude M. Fuess, Chairman of the Public Health Committee, at the Legion meeting that evening in the Town hall.

A house to house canvass will be conducted by workers under the leadership of Charles A. Parmelee, who is director of the drive. There are three kinds of memberships: annual, $1.00; contributing, $5.00, sustaining $10.00.

One-half of every membership pledge stays in Andover and is used to pay the salary of the District Nurse, Miss Marie Campbell, who for five years has served the town so well.

Last April a Ford coupe was purchased to facilitate Miss Campbell's work and the record of her increased efficiency has proved the wisdom of this purchase. Whereas in March she was able to visit only 148 cases, in September she has visited 192 cases. Her work is for the most part bedside nursing for which, wherever it is possible, a charge is made ranging from 25 cents to $2.00 a visit. The monthly fees average $55.00, and are turned back into the Public Health Committee's treasury so that Miss Campbell's work pays in part for itself.

The scope of her work has also increased with the help of the Ford for now she can visit cases at Lowell Junction, Ballardvale, and West Andover, where her work has been much appreciated, and where she was able to go with great difficulty before, in spite of their loyal support in former Red Cross Drives. In the day between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., she is now able to accomplish as much as she could formerly do between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m., and she is still fresh in the evenings to respond to emergency calls. Her services are at the disposal of anyone in Andover whether he can pay the minimum or the largest fee.

Last year the Drive in Andover brought in $2,227.00 in memberships and $159.00 in gifts. Of this $1,016.50 plus all of the gifts stayed in the Andover treasury, totalling $1,175.50. Out of a population of 8,000, 2,033 individuals contributed. This year it is hoped that the proportion of contributors will be doubled, for the opportunity to help one of the worthiest local needs as well as national and international disasters by a single donation is unequaled.

Presented Traveling Flag to Haverhill Corps

Twenty-seven members of Gen. William F. Bartlet, W. R. C. went to Haverhill last Friday night and presented the travelling flag which they recently received from Lowell corps, to the Haverhill corps. Mrs. Joseph Nuckley, president of the Andover organization, presented the flag with a few appropriate words.

An entertainment was given by the members of the Andover corps, which consisted of a short comedy, "Twelve Old Maids," put on under the direction of Mrs. Hubert Mayo, who drilled the ladies in their parts very successfully. The play was very funny and created an uproar of laughter, as the twelve old maids were turned into a grinding machine and came out beautiful or witty, as they desired.

The following took part: Miss Sadie Hobbs, Mrs. B. F. Hatch, Mrs. Edwin Eastman, Mrs. Frank Valentine, Mrs. F. M. Smith, Mrs. Walter Buxton, Mrs. Elmer Philbrick, Mrs. William Faulkner, Mrs. John Ralph, Mrs. Alexander Crockett, Mrs. Elmer Davis, Mrs. Horace Eaton, Mrs. Carl Elander, Miss Abbie Burtt, Mrs. Wade and Marion Rice.

The Haverhill corps served a delicious supper to its members and the visitors.

Inspection of Andover Chapter, O. E. S.

The first birthday of Andover chapter, O. E. S. was fittingly celebrated last Friday night by the first official inspection of the grand officers of Massachusetts.

The business meeting of the order opened in the afternoon and was followed at 6.30 o'clock with a banquet in the Town hall, which was served by Caterer A. P. Weigel of Lawrence. The menu consisted of fruit cocktail, roast beef, mashed potato, string beans, relishes, olives, rolls, chicken patties, peas, ice cream assorted cakes and coffee. The officers of the chapter and the grand officers were seated at the head table which was graced by a birthday cake.

Inspection and initiation followed in Masonic hall and there were visitors present from Pittsfield, Melrose, Roxbury, Arlington, Belmont, Fitchburg, Beverly, Lowell, Peabody, Lawrence, and Haverhill. The inspecting officers were Mrs. Helen H. Barnfather, associate and deputy grand matron of the Grand Chapter of Massachusetts; Kenneth S. Dunlop, associate grand patron; Mrs. Mabel S. White, deputy grand marshal, and Mrs. Annie L. Woodman, grand conductress. After the initiation, the grand officers were called on to make speeches and they responded, congratulating the Andover chapter on their good work, though only a year old.

Help the Lafalot Club

Oh Come! Help The Lafalot Club, one and all,
On Saturday night in the Andover Grange hall.
Our object is worthy — we do many a kind deed
For sick-folks and shut-ins, and people in need.
The supper we're serving from six until eight.
Let me warn you — Be careful and not get there late.
That it should attract you, needs no explanation,
It's merely, our cooks have a fine reputation.
There'll be music and a play that will give you much fun,
And when that is over, the evening's not done;
For then there'll be dancing for those who will stay.
Buy your tickets now — it's not wise to delay.

Making The Right Friendships

If you have a little fairy in your home, or a big one for that matter, that's just the place where a subscription to the Youth's Companion will fit in. When the young folks bring new acquaintances to the house you are mighty careful to find out about them before admitting them to intimacy. In the same way you should make sure whether the mental friends that they make through reading are of a kind to inspire them or to destroy all the ideals that you have been at so much pains to implant. Try the Youth's Companion for a year. See how quickly it becomes an indispensable member of the household, one of unfailing charm and constant stimulus to high endeavor.

The 52 issues of 1924 will be crowded with serial stories, short stories, editorials, poetry, facts and fun. Subscribe now and receive:

1. The Youth's Companion—52 issues in 1924.
2. All the remaining issues of 1923.
3. The Companion Home Calendar for 1924. All for $2.50.

Miss Frazer Speaks at Abbot Academy on World Problems and Solutions

At her talk in Davis hall on Saturday afternoon, Miss Frazer said we should be interested in world problems, for national and territorial solutions are not enough; as Edith Cavill said, "Patriotism is not enough; there is something more — there is humanity." National development is sound only when it is a contribution to world welfare. Enlightened nations must help each other to wider views. We must seek for points of unity, not of disagreement. Practically, we must get to know of other countries, for such judgments as "I don't like Americans—I don't like English people—I don't like the French," scatter broadcast thoughts that breed dissention. Meanwhile constructive action is needed in every field of action: political, social and moral. The great note of hope in Europe is that the nations are beginning to realize that there is no sense in trying to do things alone. Disease, the drug traffic, prohibition, economics, are problems that know no frontiers.

On the question of disarmament she said that we must discover foundation policies for a safe and sound future in which armaments will be unnecessary. We must finish internationally what Rome began, and develop international law. War will be outlawed when this task is complete, for law gets its force from the moral implications of life, not from armaments. The "fathers" of our constitution discarded a clause agreeing that force could be used against a state, for our union rested on "reason and agreement;" the British Empire does not rest on the sanction of force, nor does the peace between the United States and Canada. Already the world court has settled important questions; let us work for a day in which all the nations of the world shall have equal treatment before that court.

She said our thought is all important:—today some people take refuge in narrow, rigid dogma; others in wild and visionary schemes; others in materialism and indifference—and too often the people who dominate life are the negative, the inert, who are dead weights, holding back society. There is a better way than any of these. We need originality, better and finer men and women. As citizens we must get the right people to lead our democracies. Our mechanistic civilization presents its special riddle—to what ends shall we use our material power? We undervalue fine things and qualities, and overvalue things of little account. The ultimate solution is the individual, who grasps the Mary things as important beyond the Martha things in life, who loves his neighbor as himself. The explanation of the universe is inside and not outside, and to every problem there is a solution.

The offertory at both services will be divided between Bishop Bennett, for the Indian work, and the Rev. Mr. Goto, of Tokyo, Japan.

All women in Christ church parish are cordially urged to be present.

Attend Reunion of L. H. S. Class of 1900

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Jaquith and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Ingram of Salem street, were among those who attended the reunion of the Class of 1900, Lawrence High school, which was held at the Red Tavern, last Friday evening.

Twenty-eight members were present and letters of regret were received from six others. Dinner was served at half past six to members and their guests.

William H. Jaquith, president of the class, presented Ralph O. Ingram as toastmaster and the speakers were: Mr. Jaquith, Attorney Edward A. McAnally, Mr. Ball, Mrs. Gertrude O'Connell Jordan, Miss Holtham, Attorney William Delaney, Mrs. Minnie Neal Wells, Attorney Walter T. Rochefort and Arthur Sandiford of Milford, Conn.

Officers were elected as follows: President W. H. Jaquith,; vice-president, Miss Josephine Nichols; secretary, J. Rodney Ball; treasurer, Miss Lillian Holtham.

After the election of the officers the evening was given up to dancing.

Free Church Notes

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Foreign Missionary department will be celebrated at the next meeting to be held with Mrs. Joseph W. Smith on Friday afternoon, November 9, at 3 o'clock. All ladies of the parish are cordially invited.

A large delegation from the Free Church was present at the meeting of the Andover Association of Ministers and Churches held last Tuesday in the Trinitarian Church of North Andover. Interesting reports were given of the National Council Meetings held recently in Springfield, and in the evening all participated in a celebration of the Lord's Supper after an inspiring sermon by Rev. Frederick E. Emrich, D. D. The official delegaties from the Free Church were: Mrs. Dana W. Clark, Mrs. T. H. Lane, Miss Laura Spence, Deacon Thomas David, Mr. William C. Coutts, and Rev. A. S. Wheelock.

How Long Is a Reconstruction Period?

Last summer the telephone company went through a very disastrous strike in this district. The walkout which ensued could hardly be called a bona fide walkout, resulting as it did almost directly from a personal squabble, although local unions who went on strike protested any statement which denied the reasons they gave for striking!

For a time, the telephone service was paralyzed. Long waits to get "Number please" were customary. Mistakes on connections were equally frequent. The company faced the situation with a firmness which brought unqualified commendation from all sides. It refused to deal with an unloyal group of employees, hired new and inexperienced help, and begged the indulgence of a sympathetic public while green operators were gaining experience. It brought a certain amount of hardship on those who had been accustomed to transacting a large volume of their business by the handy phone method, but many of them had had similar troubles with labor in their own plants and were more than ready to give their aid in reestablishing such a valuable public service on its former efficient basis.

The middle of the week, this week,—at least two months after the time of this situation, the Townsman telephone rang. With no attempt at imitating Briggs's inimitable style, or at stealing some of Guyas William's "stuff", we offer a movie of a man answering a telephone call.

Takes up receiver and says "Hello".
Loud ringing in ear.
Repeats performance.
More loud ringing.
Says, "Hello, Hello, Hello" in monotonous tones, accompanied at times by a chorus of rings in receiver, and at times doing admirable solo work.
Three minutes later is startled to hear "Number please".
Does some quick mental gymnastics and asks for Lawrence chief toll operator.
Sound of prolonged ringing.
Smiles contentendly.
Voice says "Rep ir Clerk."
Explains that he has been expecting toll call from Boston at this time and asks aid of repair clerk in getting in touch with party who is trying to call him.
Repair clerk is sympathetic, really a delightfully voiced young lady and obviously efficient from the nature of her replies.
Repair clerk offers to connect him with chief toll operator.
Shifts receiver to right ear and awaits results.
Repair clerk tries vainly to get a connection with an operator. Loud clicking in ear, punctuated irregularly with demands for "operator".
Begins to enjoy himself. Never before had the pleasure of listening to one operator trying unsuccessfully to reach another one. Quite a joke.
Laughs a little.
Laughter evidently disconcerts repair clerk, who finally suggests that job of raising an operator is a little out of her line and guesses she'll have to leave him to his own resources. She "has other things to do."
Raises local operator and again asks for Lawrence chief toll operator.
Gets repair clerk again.
Passes the time of day with her and goes off in search of local operator again.
Again asks for Lawrence chief toll operator after shifting receiver back to left hand and noting that eighteen minutes has elapsed since bell first rang.
Gets repair clerk again.
Repair clerk admits that "this business is getting monotonous," but what can she do about it?
Cheers momentarily at hearing fourth try bring Lawrence chief toll operator.
Cheering disconcerts chief who hangs up, or whatever it is they do.
Remarks that he can't be accused of not trying and on fifth try positively and actually gets in touch with the Lawrence chief toll operator.
Tells chief he is expecting Boston call, and the circumstances attending his answering it and hangs eagerly on her reply, almost chokes himself in fact.
Chief's sure no one could have been calling him. If someone had been calling him, he would have been connected without question. Telephone company sometimes makes mistakes but always acknowledges them. Part of their system. Doesn't think operator could possibly have told party on other end that Andover "did not answer." Never heard of such a thing.
Partial satisfaction because he feels that although he didn't accomplish anything, he at least talked with a "chief," and while she was obviously "salving" she did it in a very nice way. Hopes it wasn't that call he was expecting.
Long lapse of time, next morning in fact.
Phone rings.
Answers to find party on other end of line is person who was to call him previous afternoon. Pleased to find that operator was wrong.
Yes, party had called at 1.45 previous afternoon and eight more times between then and 5.30. Had each time been told that Andover "did not answer." Party was not pleased with firm's efficiency—Why didn't they answer their phone?
Explains difficulty and reason for operator's explanation of failure to make connection.
Manages to pacify customer.
Both join in silent "prayer" directed at telephone company as a whole and in part.

The Townsman does not lay claim to any originality in submitting this incident. It realizes full well that almost any subscriber in this section of the country could tell one equally as authentic and possibly more exasperating. It realizes also, that the telephone company has had a tremendous job on its hands in the last few months. It sympathizes with those loyal employees who have been placed in positions where they have been forced to bear the brunt of complaints of disgruntled subscribers. It even sympathizes with the district managers, who have doubtless suffered countless sleepless nights and dyspeptic days worrying over the situation.

But it cannot see wherein any improvement can be noticed in the service which telephone subscribers have been receiving the past month. For the first month after the strike there was a noticeably steady improvement in service. There were fewer mistakes and shorter waits to be encountered. The last month there has been just as great a movement in the opposite direction.

The most unsatisfactory phase of the whole situation is that the ordinary mortal is absolutely helpless in the hands of that great machine. No pressure of competition can be brought to bear. Public opinion is an ineffective weapon in a situation such as exists at present. Political pressure is useless, or almost so. A great living organization is apparently "going to pot". The telephone service is almost as much a general subject for discussion as the poor old, decrepit Boston and Maine was last winter.

There the story stands. The Townsman realizes that it is not offering anything unknown to the "powers that be" in the telephone company, or to the citizens of Andover. But can't something be done about it? It does not seem reasonable that a public service company such as the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company would let about deliberately to antagonize its subscribers. Is there not some explanation which might be offered through the columns of this paper, which will enable the public to find it possible to aid the company in its "period of reconstruction"? Would a campaign educating the subscribers in a general way to the intricacies of the modern telephone system enable the company and its representatives to a better understanding with the public? And lastly, would not the public be much more willing to exercise its "patience", if it were not bamboozled with a lot of soothing remarks and weak, untruthful excuses for failure to furnish service as it should be furnished?

Actually, the incident outlined above was explained in three wholly different ways by three different employees of the company. Obviously two of them were incorrect, and the Townsman hesitates to find truth in any of them. It wishes the telephone company all the luck in the world in getting back on a pre-strike basis, but it cannot see where the telephone company can logically ask for the support of its subscribers on the basis of its performance during the past month.

Editorial Cinder

Most assuredly, the fact that rabies is prevalent in the vicinity ought to be sufficient recommendation for every dog owner to take great care in the matters of inoculation and of keeping his dog properly restrained. It is to be hoped, however, that an overzealousness in the execution of their duties will not cause any of the local police force to do away with valuable and perfectly harmless dogs, as has been the case in many communities where a rabies "scare" has momentarily alarmed the inhabitants.

Legion Bazaar and Ball Next Week

Plans are nearly completed for the supper and bazaar to be held under the auspices of Andover Post 8, American Legion, and Woman's auxiliary in the Town hall, next Thursday evening.

Supper will be served from five to seven o'clock. The public has been most generous in its contributions, and an excellent supper is assured for all those who attend. Tickets at forty cents each may be secured from Frank Markey, at Burns' furnishing store, or from any other member of the committee. No tickets will be sold Thursday evening.

Mrs. John Henderson is chairman of the supper committee and Mrs. David Hartigan will have charge of the dining-room and waitresses. The menu planned for the harvest supper is cold corned beef, cold ham, vegetable salad, baked beans, brown bread, rolls, relishes, pies and coffee.

A great variety of attractive and us ful articles will be for sale during the evening.

The candy table will make a specialty of popcorn balls, peanut bars, home-made cocoanut cakes, salted peanuts and home-made candy. The committee in charge of this table is from the South church but contributions from other parishes will be gratefully received. The members of the committee are: Mrs. Lucy A. Eaton, Mrs. Burchard Horne, Mrs. P. W. Partridge from the Woman's Union; Mrs. M. B. Reynolds, Mrs. Chester Abbott, Miss Davina Cuthbert, from The King's Daughters Miss Mildred Jenkins and Miss Florence Gilman from the A. P. C. sorority; Miss Frances Hall, from the I. B. G. sorority; Mrs. Harry Phillips and Mrs. George A. Lyon.

The Legion will have charge of the novelty table. Copies of the convention number of the "Legion Weekly," will be for sale as well as the new Legion March, "Armistice Day Forever." A pamphlet on the proper use of the flag, will be distributed free of charge.

The fancy-work table is in charge of a committee from St. Augustine's church, led by Mrs. Teresa Donovan and Miss Margaret Curran. They promise a choice assortment of bridge sets, luncheon sets, and articles for the baby.

The committee from the Chapel church, with Miss Helen Eaton, chairman, will specialize on gentlemen's and children's handkerchiefs, although there will be handkerchiefs for all sexes and sizes.

The domestic committee from Christ church, Mrs. Bertha Hilton, chairman, has a fine store of large aprons and linen for the pantry, with which they are anxious to equip Andover housekeepers.

Preserves and canned goods will be in charge of women from the Free church, Mrs. Margaret Roger, chairman. They have assembled a fine assortment of preserves, canned vegetables and marmalades.

Walking and talking dolls, bunnies, knitted Sambos, powder-box baby and sour baby pincushions, will be some of the novelties found on the doll table in charge of Mrs. Freeman Abbott of Ballardvale.

On the home-cooked food table, Mrs. William Doherty and Mrs. Stephen Gilliard will make a specialty of Thanksgiving puddings and fruit cake.

There will be four fortune tellers, who will foretell the future to all comers.

Campfire girls will sell sweet cider.

The American Legion ball will be held in the Town hall, Friday evening, November 9.

Children's Book Week November 11-17

A local committee cooperating with the National Children's Book Week Committee, has arranged for a conference of parents, teachers, aunts, uncles, and cousins, on the twentieth of November, at 3.30 p.m., at Davis hall, Abbot academy.

The general subject of the meeting will be "The Ownership of Books." Mrs. Mary Root, formerly of the Providence library, will speak for the younger readers, and Miss Alice A. Blanchard of the Hampshire Bookshop will discuss books for the older boys and girls. Miss Blanchard will bring with her a generous selection of books, which may be ordered from her or from the Andover Bookstore. She will [illegible] not only about books for little children for whom there is such a bewildering array of new titles that it is impossible without careful study to know the best, but the speaker will also bring word of many new editions of the old favorites which perennially bridge the gap between youth and crabbed age. Fathers will want to see the new Riverside edition of the "Story of a Bad Boy" and everybody will be glad to know about Hugh Walpole's "Jeremy and Hamlet" just out.

Everyone who loves books and is young at heart if not in fact, will seize this opportunity and will ask questions freely, and when Christmas comes around, he will be there with the goods—with the one book in all the world for some young friend.

Miss Blanchard with her books will be at the Andover Bookstore all day Wednesday, the 21st, to take orders and to confer with anyone relative to book purchases. She will be assisted by the Bookstore staff and members of the local committee.

Andover Fraternal Building Association to Meet

A meeting of the Andover Fraternal Building Association, will be held Thursday evening, November 8, in Odd Fellows hall, at 7.45 o'clock.

All members of the I. O. O. F., Knights of Pythias, Order of Scottish Clans, and there auxiliaries are urged to attend, as a full report of all business to date will be given and a plan of the new lodge rooms will be presented for inspection.

Cows and Horses Perish in the Flame

A fire starting from an unknown cause, totally destroyed the barn and livestock of Milo Gould, Wednesday night, the conflagration starting early in the evening and lasting well into the early hours of the morning. Mr. Gould was out for the evening and the location of the house and barn prevented the possibility of any notification reaching the fire department until the blaze had reached considerable proportions.

At 8.04, a telephone call to the engine house, from the Ward house on Prospect hill, gave the information that there was a fire of some size about one-half a mile from Prospect hill in a southerly direction, and the department pulled box 38 and responded to that box. Once there, it was thought that the fire was too far away for it to be within the call of the Andover department, and it was not until the apparatus had returned to the Park street station that definite information was received as to the exact location of the blaze.

When the department arrived, nothing could be done to save the barn. Fortunately, the direction of the wind made the matter of saving the house very easy. This morning, nothing was left of what had been the scene of many a merry husking bee and barn dance, but a pile of smoldering hay, the charred carcasses of four cows, a heifer and two horses, and a mass of corrugated iron and burned wood which had made up the roof and the studding of the barn. There is every evidence for the belief that the fire was maliciously started, and Chief of Police Smith has some information which may lead to the capture of responsible parties.

Have Erected Stone at Spring Grove

Friends of the late Mr. Cassius W. Buck have erected a stone to his memory, in the Spring Grove Cemetery. This is a fitting tribute to a just man,—a man of a type to be honored more and more for scrupulous devotion to a high ideal of workmanship and service, following in practice the principle of the Golden Rule.

MISSIONARY MEETING

open mind what one heard concerning the federation; and to lend a helping hand to the broadcasting of Christian literature which by the printed page will help to spread the ideals of Christian women.

Miss Kyle also spoke of the wonderful possibility of carrying the entire missionary work of the Congregational societies over the whole world for one minute by a contribution of ten dollars.

Rev. Hilton Pedley, D. D., of Japan, who was the principal speaker of the afternoon, opened his remarks with allusions to the recent disaster which wiped out Tokyo, the capitol city of 2,000,000 people.

He spoke of the marvelous progress which Japan has made in the last few decades in education, commerce and business. In the last twenty-five years, factories have entirely changed the character both of the country and the people, 300,000 young girls being recruited annually from the country to supply the demand for operatives.

Japan has also entered the commerce of nations with a magnificent fleet, the vessels of which are seen in the most distant ports of the world. She has a standing army of 400,000, one of the finest in the world, spending one-half of her revenue on her army and navy, in her determination never to bow before the foreign yoke.

Public school education has also come to stay, ninety-eight per cent of the children being on the school register.

This marvelous progress Dr. Pedley attributed to the religious and moral character of this industrious people. Their lessons of patriotism and loyalty have been learned from their worship of the sun gods, their moral character formed by the teachings of Confucius, and their religion taken from the teachings of Buddha. According to Dr. Pedley, the first form of religion is purely local. Confucianism is worn out and Buddhism has lost its moral power. Christianity is coming in with its message of life and revelations of power.

Rev. Mr. Gawa was optimistic in his belief that we are now entering into a new era when there will be a better understanding and a more sympathetic and friendly relation between Japan and the United States. He has confidence that even the Japanese question in California can be settled by a fair, just treatment of the Japanese already in this country. Mr. Gawa is the minister of the united Presbyterian and Congregational Church in Los Angeles, which has a $100,000 building, a monument to the relations between the United States and Japan, and from it many teachers and preachers return to their native land carrying American ideals.

A model mission study class was illustrated by Miss Ethelwyn Wallace, junior secretary, assisted by Muriel Gilbert, Betty Harrington, Dorothy Hill, Nettie Pritchard, Emma Daniels and Teresa Proctor.

The most charming number on the entire program was the missionary play, "How Some Little Dollies Came to Go as Missionaries," presented by four little girls under the direction of Mrs. George M. R. Holmes. The self-sacrificing, generous, missionary spirit was brought to their hearers with an appeal often missing in more formal addresses. The closing song was given with Mrs. John Albion Burtt as accompanist. The old-fashioned costumes which added charm to the little sketch were arranged by Mrs. P. Bartlett Whittemore. Those who took part in the play were Elaine Burtt, Maryette Whittemore, Ella Larkin and Etta Larkin.

Twenty-five children from the primary department of the South church Sunday school sang, "I think When I Read That Sweet Story of Old."

The meeting closed with a blessing by Rev. E. Victor Bigelow.

During the noon hour a luncheon consisting of chicken patties, green peas, sandwiches, pickles, Waldorf salad, sponge cake with whipped cream and coffee was served by the women of the South church. The members of the luncheon committee were: Mrs. Herbert White, chairman, Mrs. Harry Wadman, Mrs. Frederic G. Moore, Mrs. John Franklin, Mrs. P. W. Partridge, Mrs. John Henderson, Mrs. I. Kimball, Mrs. Monte Whitcomb, Mrs. Charles Palmer and Mrs. Arthur W. Bassett.

The members of the band of Junior Helpers took the opportunity to increase their fund for missionary work and by the sale of lollipop dolls, home-made candy and peanuts, realized the sum of nine dollars.

Officers were elected as follows:

President, Miss E. Josephine Wilcox, Medford; honorary vice presidents, Mrs. E. Y. Hincks, Cambridge; Mrs. Joshua Coit, Boston; Mrs. J. B. Field, Brookline; Mrs. E. Victor Bigelow, Andover; Mrs. G. A. Bull, Billerica; Miss Helen Buttrick, Lowell; Miss A. M. Chapin, Melrose; Mrs. E. R. B. Chapman, Stoneham; Mrs. E. S. Gould, Lawrence; Mrs. M. E. Kneeland, Jamaica Plain; Mrs. D. A. Newton, Reading; Mrs. C. H. Oliphant, Methuen; Mrs. W. A. Prior, Woburn; Miss J. M. Sleeper, Lowell; Mrs. H. F. Smith, West Medford; recording secretary, Mrs. Austin Rice, Wakefield; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. F. Belcher, Malden; home secretary, Miss Emma O. Nichols, Lexington; secretary of junior work, Miss Ethelwyn Wallace, Wakefield; treasurer, Miss Minnie C. Messenger, Melrose Highlands; auditor, William E. Loring, Melrose Highlands.

Wedding

MORRISSEY — McCORMACK

Miss Catherine A. McCormack of 263 Jackson street, Lawrence, was united in marriage to Walter Morrissey of Andover, Monday morning at St. Laurence's church at 9.30 o'clock at a nuptial mass. Rev. Frederick S. Riordan performed the ceremony. Mrs. Clement Davis played the wedding marches.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mary McCormack, and John Driscoll of Andover was the best man. Following the ceremony a reception for the immediate families was held at the bride's home. After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Morrissey will live at 47 High street, Andover.

HALLOWE'EN PARTIES

for the occasion and games suitable to Hallowe'en were played. Refreshments were served. Those at this party were Olive Warden, Madeline Rice, Polly Francis, Marjorie West, Eleanor Keith, Isabel Bodwell, Katherine Croy, Doris Manning.

Mrs. L. V. Roth entertained informally on Tuesday evening for a party of ten young people, students at Abbot and Phillips academies. The festivities were such as are associated with the Hallowe'en season. A supper was served.

Bradford and Kellogg Boynton, little sons of Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Boynton of Porter road, entertained several of their little friends Wednesday evening and they had a jolly good time playing Hallowe'en games and scaring each other with ghosts and witches.

The Bridle and Spur club of Lawrence, held a Hallowe'en dance in the Andover Guild house Wednesday evening, and about 50 couples were present and fully enjoyed the evening. Dancing was enjoyed to music furnished by Dwyer's orchestra and many favor dances were on the program. In the center of the hall a gymnasium horse was placed, decorated with bridle and Hallowe'en streamers, and each dance was dedicated to a horse at the riding academy, which the club patronizes. Refreshments were served during intermission. Miss Vivian Taylor, instructor at the Andover Guild, was in charge of this affair.

The Hawthorne club held a very delightful Hallowe'en party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Richard Abbott Wednesday evening. The affair was held in the barn, which was prettily decorated with pumpkins and cornstalks, and supper was served, consisting of hot dogs, rolls, doughnuts, cider and so forth, appropriate to Hallowe'en. Dancing was also enjoyed, Virginia reels being the favorite pastime. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Abbott and son Richard, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. William Bateson, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Christie, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Crosby, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Ellis, Miss Amy Roby, Abbott Chase.

Miss Mary Caldwell of Elm street, who is soon to be married to Alfred Harris, was the guest of honor at a package shower held at the home of Mrs. James Coates Wednesday evening. The affair was in the form of a Hallowe'en party for the Clan Auxiliary, and Miss Caldwell was much surprised when she was singled as the guest of honor.

The party was held in the barn and this was decorated with Jack-o'-lanterns, cornstalks, witches, pumpkins and apples, and was very attractive. About 50 members of the Clan Auxiliary were present and enjoyed dancing to music furnished by a Victrola. Several of the members came in costume and these caused much favorable comment and fun.

Adjourning to the house, the party sang several Scottish songs, and were served refreshments appropriate to the occasion.

Division No. 6, Ancient Order of Hibernians, held a Hallowe'en and card party on Monday evening at the home of Edward Eldred at 46 Maple avenue. About 50 members and their wives were in attendance. Hallowe'en games were enjoyed, and refreshments were served by the hostess. Several prizes were awarded the winners at whist and forty-five. The division will hold a regular meeting next Monday evening in the K. of C. home on Chestnut street at 7:30 o'clock sharp.

The prize awards: Ladies', umbrella, donated by T. H. Lane & Sons company, won by Mrs. Edward McCabe; pyrex dish, donated by the division, won by Mrs. Joseph Beaulieu; boudoir cap, donated by the division, won by Mrs. Jeremiah O'Connor. Men's: Fountain pen, donated by Patrick Joyce, won by Mr. LeKing; safety razor, donated by Walter I. Morse, won by Peter Cashan; pipe, donated by the division, won by Arthur Grant. Special prize for forty-five: Combination smoking set, donated by a friend, won by Maurice Collins.

The Free church parish house was the scene of a most successful Hallowe'en party on Saturday evening, when the Christian Endeavor Union of Andover gathered its members together for a good time.

The primary room was attractively decorated with goblins and witches, and cats in black paper disported themselves on the walls. The Free church society had charge of the decorations. During the evening an entertainment was presented, consisting of readings by Miss Mabel Marshall, solos by Marjorie Bissett, and also by an entertainer from Haverhill. Miss Nettie Pritchard told weird ghost stories, which made the shivers run up the backs of her hearers, when the lights were turned low. Games were played appropriate to Hallowe'en, and an orchestra consisting of William Simeone, banjo; Malcolm Lundgren, piano; Alfred Kenyon, saxophone; Seldon Billington, violin; and Franklin Belcour, drum, played several selections which were much enjoyed.

A candy table under the direction of the Ballardvale society, in charge of Mrs. Roy M. Haynes, Miss Barbara Loomer, Miss Marion Hall and Miss Bertha Hall, was very popular, and all the good things that were not sold over the counter were auctioned off by William Barnett at the close of the social.

The West Andover society had charge of the refreshments which consisted of cider and doughnuts. These were served by Elmer Peterson, Melvin Foster, Mildred Hicks, and Abbie Lewis.

The proceeds of the social will be added to the fund of the Union which plans to entertain the Essex County Christian Endeavor convention a year from next April.

Local Committee Makes Plans for Observance of Book Week

At a well-attended meeting held at the office of the Andover Press last evening plans were made for the observance of Childrens' Book week in Andover, which has been appointed by the National committee, for the week beginning November 11.

This year will be the fifth time that a Childrens' Book Week has been observed, and it is the wish of the national committee that all organizations, through their members, assist the work by emphasizing the need and value of good books for children. After a few introductory remarks by Miss Mary Byers Smith concerning the purpose of the meeting, the local committee organized, with Dr. Claude M. Fuess, chairman, and Miss Ruth Abbott, secretary.

A public meeting to be held in Davis hall on the afternoon of November 20, is one of the good things arranged by the committee. The subject for the afternoon will be, "Best Books for Children" and two excellent speakers have been secured. A more extended notice will be found in another column.

It is planned to hold additional meetings in Shawsheen Village, Ballardvale, and Abbott Village.

A historical collection of children's books, published before 1870, will be a special interest. A sub-committee, composed of Miss Edna Brown, Miss Julia Twichell, Mrs. Thaxter Eaton and Mrs. Frank M. Foster will have charge of this feature. All persons having children's books which will be of interest, are asked to leave them at Memorial Hall library at their earliest convenience. They will be exhibited in glass cases and every care will be taken to ensure their safety.

At the Punchard school, Children's Book Week will be emphasized in the composition work, particularly in oral compositions, giving reports on books recently read. An address will be given one morning at assembly. In the manual training classes, bookracks are being made, and posters made by high school scholars will help to keep the significance of the week in the mind of the public. The literature classes at Abbot will also participate in the observance of the week.

All the ministers of Andover have been invited to cooperate in the movement and church calendars will be used as mediums for expressing the importance of good literature for the young. Rev. Fr. Nugent will address his parishioners on the subject of good books and the week will also have some observance at the parochial school.

Mrs. Frank M. Foster was appointed a committee to confer with Manager Resnik about having a good book film shown at the Colonial theatre during the week.

Among those present at the meeting were Mrs. John C. Angus, Miss Edna A. Brown, Miss Ruth E. Abbott, Mrs. Douglas Donald, Miss Anna Chase, Mrs. Charlotte N. Duke, Miss Martha Byington, Mrs. Frank M. Foster, Mrs. Annie S. Alley, Miss Mary Byers Smith, Miss Elizabeth Bartlett, Miss Bessie P. Goldsmith, Miss Margaret Curran, Mrs. Thaxter Eaton, Mrs. Eben A. Baldwin, Miss Underhill, Mrs. Alice Lewis, Roy H. Bradford, W. Dudley Yates, F. G. Cheney, Perley F. Gilbert, Philip P. Cole, John F. O'Connell, Nathan C. Hamblin, Henry C. Sanborn, Rev. Newman Matthews and Dr. Claude M. Fuess.

Other members of the committee are Mrs. George L. Selden, Mrs. Frank H. Hardy, Mrs. William A. Trow, Mrs. Frank T. Carlton, Mrs. Albert W. Lowe, Miss Katherine Moynihan, Miss Martha Howey, Miss Edith Wade, Mrs. Bartlett Hayes, Miss Anna W. Kuhn, Miss Jane Holt, Miss Alice M. Bell, Myron H. Clark, Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, Rev. C. Norman Bartlet, Rev. John A. Nugent, Dr. P. J. Look, Dr. W. D. Walker and Prof. Charles H. Forbes.

Information Wanted

Our "Jack" was a large gray dog with white throat and breast and tail tip. His class was "Blue Merle" which is a kind of collie. On October 7th, he came home very early in the morning, lame and bleeding, evidently from a bad dog fight or vicious clubbing.

He was later inoculated against rabies, etherized, and a broken jaw bone treated.

The jaw was healing, when other symptoms developed, and on Thursday, November 1st, the doctor said he clearly had "Dumb Rabies," recovery from which is most unlikely and safety and kindness required that his suffering be ended. So this was done. If any one can tell us of the happening on October 7th, kindly write to

Obituary

WILLIAM ANDERSON

William Anderson died Wednesday noon, at his home on Buxton court, aged 76 years. He was born in Scotland, but had lived in Andover for the past 20 years. The survivors are three daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Donaldson, Mrs. Frank Dennison, Mrs. Violet Hayes of New York; three sons. William Anderson, Robert Anderson and John Anderson.

The funeral was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, at the late home, and Rev. Arthur Wheelock of the Free church officiated. Burial was in Spring Grove cemetery.

Andover 33 — Harvard Second 0,

Wednesday on Brothers Field, Andover, a substitute eleven playing for Andover defeated the Harvard Second team, 33-0. Not a first string man was in the game at any time for the Blue, and yet Andover won. Not only did Andover win, but she trampled the Seconds way down into the mire, scoring the 33 points in eight-minute quarters.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Seth Taylor of 208 North Main street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Eugenia, to John Albert Colbath, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Colbath of Ballardvale.

Tells How to Listen to Music

The third in the series of lectures on the appreciation of music given by Miss Terrell of the New England Conservatory of Music at the Punchard building last evening was a particularly interesting occasion.

Miss Terrell told of stringed instruments, the violin, viola, 'cello, and double bass, and the part they have in a large orchestra supporting each other and the other instruments.

Schubert's unfinshed symphony was used by Miss Terrell to illustrate the talk. She picked out the motif, and told how to listen to it. The symphony was played both before and after the talk and the members immediately felt how much keener was their appreciation when they had learned what to listen for.

Next week the lesson will be on the brass choir and orchestra and how to listen to them.

All persons interested to join the class are urged to do so at once before the study has progressed further. The class meets in Punchard hall on Thursday evenings at half past seven.

Successful Hallowe'en Social

The most successful Hallowe'en social ever held under the auspices of Ballardvale lodge, No. 105, took place in Good Templar hall, Monday evening with almost 40 present.

The hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion and made a splendid setting for the ghosts and goblins to enjoy the evening. A large number of those present came in costume and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Poor won the two prizes given for the best Hallowe'en costumes.

A large number of friends from Andover were present and a number of applications for membership were received at the business session preceding the party. During the evening games were played and refreshments served.

The following were in charge: Bella Benson, Doris Wilkinson, Frances Benson, Wilhelmina Vannett, Miss Smith.

Hallowe'en Social Big Success

One of the most successful gatherings ever held by the Bradlee Mothers' club was held in the Community room Tuesday evening, in the form of a Hallowe'en social with 60 members and guests present.

The hall was prettily decorated with orange and black crepe paper streamers and jack-o'-lanterns.

Nearly all present were in costumes, which were both attractive and unique. The festivities opened with a grand march led by Mr. and Mrs. David Burns which showed to advantage the many beautiful costumes.

Mrs. Louis G. Buck addressed the gathering and welcomed the fathers who were the special guests of the occasion, and the following excellent entertainment was given:

Piano solo — Frances McAvoy
Song, "A Kiss in the Dark" — Grace Holland
Accompanied by Frances McAvoy
Recitation, "The Miller of Dee" — Mrs. Elmer Conkey
Violin solo — Timothy Haggerty
Accompanied by Frances McAvoy
Song, "A Girl That Men Forgot" — Edna Holland
Accompanied by Frances McAvoy
Recitation, "The Hallowe'en Burglar" — Mrs. Timothy Haggerty
Duet — Grace Holland, Edna Holland
Accompanied by Frances McAvoy

Refreshments of doughnuts, cake, cheese and coffee were served by the following committee: Mrs. W. E. Curtis, Mrs. William Clemons, Mrs. S. Walker, Mrs. Joseph Wood, Mrs. Ormsby, Mrs. Timothy Haggerty.

Numerous games were played, causing much amusement, everyone entering into the spirit of the occasion.

Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour, the Virginia reel finding the most favor. Music was furnished by Frances McAvoy, piano; William McIntyre, drums; Timothy Haggerty, violin.

Credit is due the committee for the success of the affair and especially to the president of the club, Mrs. Louis Buck, who is untiring in her efforts to make these annual gatherings successful.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Buck, Mr. and Mrs. David Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shattuck, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Conkey, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. William Davis, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Former Resident Dead

John Pardon, a former well known resident of this town, died Monday at the Soldiers' Home at Chelsea. He was a resident of this town many years ago and had many friends here.

Mr. Pardon was a Civil War veteran and lived to the ripe old age of 96 years. He leaves a step-sister and step-brother.

"Johnny," as he was known, when living here was a conspicuous character, and a friend to everyone. During the last few years it has been his habit to visit his friends here every summer, renewing acquaintances

The funeral services were held from the Congregational church Thursday afternoon. Rev. Augustus H. Fuller officiated.

Hold Hallowe'en Party

Saturday evening the Ayer mill office force held a Hallowe'en party in the barn at the residence of William D. McIntyre, Andover street.

The usual Hallowe'en games were played and old-fashioned and modern dances participated in. Refreshments were served and the gathering broke up at an early hour with all satisfied that the evening was well spent.

Junior Helpers to Give Play

Next Saturday afternoon at four o'clock the Junior Helpers of the Congregational church will give a Japanese play in the vestry. The children and committees in charge have been working hard during the past few weeks to make this a success. It is hoped that all people of the town will avail themselves of the opportunity to witness the play. A silver offering will be taken.

The title of the play is "Alice Through the Postal Card." The cast is: Alice, Elsie Gilbert; Mary, Doris Shaw; fairy, Jane Wood; Japanese doll, Ada Haynes; Japanese fan, Norma Matthews; Japanese napkin, Doris Kidd; kimono girl, Ruth Scannell; chrysanthemum, Drina Gollan; matting boy, Sherborne Pendleton; Japanese lantern, Russell Hall; lantern guards, Ernest Stein, James Laurie, Gordon Hall and Raymond Wilkinson; tea cup queen, Jeanie Scannell; lord high chancellor, James Sparks; keeper of the dungeon, Norman Matthews; ladies in waiting on the queen, Alice Ward, Frances Benson, Eleanor Ward, Marjorie Olmsby; O-Hana-San, Ruth Davis; songsters, Margaret Mitchell, Esther Greenwood, Edna Kidd and Mary Ward.

Junior Helpers Meet

A meeting of the Junior Helpers of the Congregational church was held Monday afternoon in the vestry with a goodly number present. Jeanie Scannell, president of the organization, was in charge. An invitation has been received by the local club to be the guests of the Junior Helpers of the South church, Saturday, Nov. 17.

A letter from Miss Caroline Sewell, a missionary to China, was read. Miss Emily Tracy also told of a remarkable Japanese man by the name of Joseph Neesima, who was educated at Andover academy, and who has founded a Christian university in Japan. At the close of the meeting a rehearsal for the play was held.

Benefit Concert

Plans are complete and tickets selling for the benefit concert to be held in the Community rooms on next Tuesday evening, Nov. 6.

A fine entertainment has been arranged. The committee in charge of the affair is: Mrs. Frances Benson, Mrs. Margaret Mitchell, Edwin Brown and Rev. and Mrs. Thomas E. Adams.

Join the League of Women Voters

Many people are asking, "What is the League of Women Voters and why is it necessary?" Let us answer the query under three heads. I. Why Voters? II. Why Women? III. Why a League?

I. Why Vote?

It is to the advantage of those who have a vested interest in politics, those who are in it for what they can get out of it, that many women are indifferent to their machinations. Nothing is more gratifying to these grafters than to be assured that women will remain unenlightened as to the intricacies of the game. Folks who persist in arguing that it is too dirty a game for a woman to soil her hands with play beautifully into the hands of these enemies of the public. On the other hand, nothing is more terrifying to them than to hear of some one goal that those women who are in earnest have set their hearts and minds on reaching, a goal which threatens their own sources of ill-gotten gains. Veritably the vote is a stronger weapon than we have begun to realize, if only we can learn to wield it deftly. The forces of evil are organized for definite ends. Shall women hesitate to organize and organize powerfully for the opposite ends? To organize an opposition that will not waver even in the face of criticism and danger is an act of heroism comparable to the sort we expect of our men in times when our own safety is threatened. Are women courageous enough to seize this weapon and wield it in defense of the common good!

II. Why Women?

In former times the woman with a large heart and an interest in her fellow-men went in for charity, but while sociologists were proving that too often this superficial daubing at great public sores only increased pauperism and hindered adequate treatment, a more powerful instrument, one fitted to provide this treatment, was placed in woman's hand, the vote. To be sure it is a clumsy enough tool, but what surgeon, for the want of a perfect instrument, hesitates to perform an operation necessary to save life. What mere aloof critic of this instrument will ever improve upon it? Who but the wielder of a tool best knows its weaknesses and best realizes the changes necessary for a more perfect accomplishment of its task? Woman must take the tool at hand and while wielding it for righteousness, improve it as she can to the end that good government may be no longer a dream, but an accomplished fact.

Again, because of her intimate knowledge of the very central factor of human life, the home, reaching out as it does inevitably, and gathering unto itself, whether it will or no, all community influences, good or evil, woman can most practically deal with the management of her wider home, the community. When she understands that politics is nothing esoteric, not a thing apart, a mysterious manipulation by means of incantations and weird rites, but simply the management of the town, the state, the nation, through perfectly understandable governmental methods, than, and then only, can she help to determine the quality of that management. Equipped with some knowledge of the methods involved, and with the will to make use of it, is there the least doubt that she will determine that it shall be good management? But because, as Maude Ward Park says, women have not yet formed their political habits and therefore have not formed bad ones, they have a fresh and unspoiled viewpoint upon these matters and a distinctive contribution to make as women. Merely to fall in line with men's established way of doing things would be to hide their light under a bushel and probably to have it put out.

It must be clearly understood that the League is in no sense a Woman's Party. There is no place for a woman's party, for there is no issue of good government that is not the business of all men and all women of high purposes. It is not a party. It is women of all parties working together.

III. Why a League?

In a very enlightening article on Political Parties, Schuyler C. Wallace describes the powerful influence exerted by "pressure groups," which he defines as organizations with a dynamic nucleus which knows what it wants and is determined to get it. We all know how confusing are the issues as presented in the party platforms. Yet parties there must be, and if we are to participate in politics, we must do so through party channels. How then shall we compel the parties to respond to the wishes of public opinion? Through these pressure groups of which the League is one that promises to become more and more effective as more and more women join it. "If there are any of these organizations", he says, "in whose principles the reader believes, the moral is, if she desires to make her influence doubly effective, join one."

The League of Women Voters aims to increase among women, who wish to make the world a happier place for all, an understanding of current political issues and an intelligent participation in affairs of government.

The moral of this article is: "Join the League."

Heroes Reduced to Want.

The highest British decoration for valor in battle, the Victoria cross, does not necessarily pave the way to a good job in peace time. Several winners of the decoration have been found in the ranks of the unemployed, and more than one has tried to pawn his decoration because of the lack of money, but it is illegal for a pawnbroker to accept one as a pledge for a loan. One Victoria cross captain, who won his at the storming of Thiepval, September, 1916, when he was twenty-two years old, has hit upon the idea of touring the villages with a traveling moving-picture show. Two others are acting as advertising agents, while another has gone back to his old job as a surfaceman in a mining village in the midlands. Captain Towse, the famous blind V. C., is working at St. Dunstan's, the London home for blind soldiers started by the late Sir Arthur Pearson.

Abbot Academy Notes

Miss Helen Frazer of London, gave a very stirring and enlightening talk on "World Problems and Solutions," in Davis hall on Saturday afternoon. She spent the week-end at the school, and spoke to the students on life's values at Monday morning chapel.

At chapel, Sunday evening, Miss Fjeril Hess of New York, spoke in the interest of the International Friendship Fund, drawing her illustrations of the need from Czechoslovakia, where she has worked with students, to whose reace she belongs. Mr. Howe gave a delightful program of organ music at the close of the service.

One of the most successful masquerades of recent years at the school was the Hallowe'en masquerade given in Davis hall on Tuesday evening. The costumes were unusually attractive and interesting, and the prize for the best one went to Priscilla Whittemore of Andover, who in both dress and acting, was a perfect witch.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Henry gave a delightful tea at the rectory on Wednesday afternoon, for the faculty and students who attend Christ Church.

Many Persons Using Memorial Hall Library

The Memorial Hall Library has been a busy place during October. For home use, 3664 books have been borrowed. During September, the record was 2925. At Ballardvale, 520 were issued.

The use of the library for reference and school work was also large. At times, the reading-room has been well filled with studying children, looking up topics in connection with their lessons. The registration of new borrowers has also exceeded the September record of 44. Since the first of October, 67 new people have taken cards and begun to use the library.

Talk No. 4

The Difference Between "Blooming" and Turning White

IN Talk No. 3 we explained that varnishes of transient life, made of rosin or rosin ester gum, as well as the long wearing varnishes made of the petrified fossil gums, may both be made so that they do not turn white, and how the durability of a varnish cannot be judged by that test.

It is well to bear this in mind in view of the general impression these days that "not turning white" is a guarantee of durability.

Old timers understand that there is a world of difference between a varnish that "blooms" and a varnish that turns white and stays white when subjected to water.

Some of the best of the long-lived, linseed oil—petrified fossil gum varnishes will show an opalescent bloom when a boat or motor car finished with them has been exposed to a bad storm, but just as soon as the water dries off such varnish regains its original brilliancy. This is quite different from varnishes that turn white and stay white.

A little of the oil we told you about in our last Talk, which is commonly called Chinawood Oil and which is used to keep rosin and rosin ester gum varnishes from turning white and staying white, may be used to prevent the old time varnishes from even showing this "bloom." Used sparingly for this purpose, it does not impair the quality of the Linseed Oil, but a varnish made with Chinawood Oil alone soon loses its lustre and lacks durability. On account of the thickness or body it gets when boiled, it permits of the manufacture of the false bodied varnishes which leave such a thin coating when they have dried.

Editorial

In 1838, Henry Coleman, Commissioner of Agriculture in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, wrote:

"The rewards of agricultural labor in Massachusetts are ample, in that an industrious man may obtain by skillful and active agriculture not only a comfortable subsistence, but his gains will prove so much more than his real and reasonable wants, that in ordinary circumstances he may early enjoy the satisfactions of a domestic connection, have the means of healthful and innocent luxury, raise and well educate a numerous family, exercise a generous hospitality, and lay up a competent provision against the casualties of human affairs and the decline of life. All this may be done in the exercise of a good conscience with a single pair of hands; and with no other than the joint aid of a loving and growing household; and in such cases the ever sure blessing of a kind Providence. It is on this account, then, that agriculture deserves every encouragement that the State can give. It has likewise an intimate connection with good morals, and the support and purity of our republican institutions."

Today Massachusetts has one of the best of State highway systems. Though perhaps less devoted to agriculture now than then, because of the great factories which have come to her, Massachusetts has never wavered from Coleman's idea that "agriculture deserves every encouragement the State can give." And there is no greater encouragement than the provision of good roads everywhere.

Doubtless Coleman hoped for, in 1838, what we hope for now, "a paved United States in our day." His hope was doomed to disappointment. But this is 1923, not 1838. The United States has the money, the people, the votes, the engineers, the roads to improve. All that stands between us and that paved United States, which will indeed give to agriculture every encouragement the country can give, is the inertia of the old idea, and the completion of the education of us all that what we want, need, must have, is national highways and good roads everywhere.

WHY SHOULD FRANCE EXCEL U. S. IN ROADS?

National Highways Saved France in War

France has 24,000 miles of national highways, 160,000 of departmental and intercommunicating highways, and 185,000 miles of parish or vicinal roads. The national highways approximate six and one-half per cent of France's highway system.

There are running on the roads of France 300,000 motor cars, less than one per mile of road.

The United States has 2,882,198 miles of roads, of which a tiny small fraction of one per cent might be denominated national highways by a stretch of the imagination, which would include roads in national parks and on such reservations as the Canal Zone and the District of Columbia under the term "national highways."

The United States has 13,000,000 motor cars running upon its highways, or more than four per mile of road.

Is there any really good reason why the United States should do less in transportation for its people than France? The paved highways of France saved that nation when nothing else could save her! Only the fact that she could transport her armies, her ammunition, her supplies with rapidity and dispatch allowed her to stem the German attack. Had she had such roads as we have, she would be today beneath the heel of the conqueror.

It is no argument to say we do not need national highways, because we are not neighbors to countries which might attack us. France did not build and does not maintain her national highways merely for strategic reasons. She builds and maintains them for economic reasons. If thrifty France can find economy in the national highway idea, why can not the United States find the same benefit in the same idea?

ASPHALT PAVEMENT BETTER EVERY YEAR

Four Varieties in Common Use

Asphalt is the oldest water-proof adhesive known to man. Its use dates back beyond the mists which shroud prehistoric days. Unlike many basic materials, science and invention have not discovered any substitute for it, and no synthetic asphalt is producable commercially which compares either in price or in utility with the natural product.

Asphalt is used in roads in many ways, but there are four broad divisions generally recognized by road engineers. These four have been developed, and year by year, as further experiments and experience become available, the types are improved until now it is generally conceded that for its purposes, and when properly laid, asphalt has no superiors as a road material.

The four generally recognized types are, (1) asphalt macadam, in which broken stone has melted asphalt applied to it to penetrate the entire course, with stone chips to cover the surface spaces, and a seal-coat of hot asphalt and stone chips; (2) asphaltic concrete, made of an intimate mixture of asphalt and broken stone or gravel sand, laid and compacted while hot into a single course, sometimes finished with a seal coat; (3) sheet asphalt, constructed in two courses, the lower of asphaltic concrete, the top course of a mixture of asphalt and carefully graded mineral filler; (4) asphalt blocks, made of asphaltic concrete moulded under heavy pressure, and laid on a sand or mortar cushion, like brick.

Asphalt is also used as a filler for brick pavements, mixed with sand to form a grout for stone block pavements, and to fill the expansion joints in monolithic pavements of cement.

UNIFORM TRAFFIC LAWS ON NATIONAL HIGHWAYS

Present Chaos Must End When Nation Builds Roads

Traffic laws which differ in different states and different towns in the same state, are a cause of confusion, accident, loss of property, and loss of life. Uniform traffic laws, the same the country over, will promote safety.

The objection urged against uniform traffic laws that traffic conditions are different in different localities, does not hold in the face of the obvious power of the locality to modify or add to the uniform law for special conditions. There are many observances which, made uniform, would make for safety, such as the system of signalling for a stop, slow up and turn, a uniform rule as to right of way at crossings, safety procedure at grade crossings, a heavy penalty for such dangerous practices as passing another car when coming to a curve or top of a hill, etc.

With forty-eight states and thousands of municipalities, all making their own traffic rules, the motorist is more or less at sea as to what he can and can not, should and should not do. But when the National Government builds roads for the nation, a national traffic law will be inevitable as a national police force for the national highways.

"A paved United States in our day" is not only devoutly to be wished for, because of the material benefits it will bring, but because of the safety the uniformity of traffic rules will provide, when the Congress authorizes a system of national highways which will serve all the states as a good state highway system now serves all the counties in that state.

Andover 13 — Yale Second 2

The Andover eleven invaded New Haven Saturday and defeated Yale Second by the score of 13 to 2. It was Andover's first game of the season away from home, but that did not deter the Blue from scoring a decisive victory over the Yale scrubs. A victory was expected, but not one so easy as that.

Andover started off with a rush, playing the Yale men off their feet in the first quarter. After an exchange of punts, the ball was in Andover's possession on Yale's 48-yard line. Andover failed to make a first down, however, and lost the ball to the Yale team on the 40-yard line. Here the scrubs tried two line plays, which failed. On the third play, however, one of the Yale backs fumbled the ball. Bill Healey, Andover's right guard, saw the ball and made a dive for it. Instead of merely falling on it, he showed that he had real football brains by picking it up and running the 40 yards for Andover's first touchdown. It was a fine run, and Healey deserves all credit for taking advantage of Yale's mistake. Not a Yale man was in his way, and, although they tried hard enough, they could not bring him down. He certainly had speed, which proved its use in this case. To crown the stroke, Sandberg kicked a beautiful goal after touchdown, giving Andover a total of seven points to Yale's nothing.

Immediately after this score, Andover kicked off to Yale. Yale tried to gain, but did not get very far, so punted. Another exchange of punts was made, and Andover had the ball on Yale's 35-yard line. From here Andover began another march for a touchdown. Parisien tore off some good gains on end runs, showing his usual slipperiness. The Yale team couldn't seem to stop him. Randall and Sandburg made several good gains, crashing through the Yale line on off-tackle plays. Andover also made some pretty forward passes at this stage of the game. A last forward pass from Randall to Sandburg put the ball over for a second touchdown within the first quarter. Andover failed to kick goal, but that mattered little. The score was 13 to 0, in its favor and Yale had not even come within striking distance of Andover's goal line.

The quarter finished with a few more plays by each team, none of which gained materially.

In the second quarter the game was more even, Yale and Andover fighting every minute to put the ball over the line. A large number of punts were exchanged in this period, Bradley of Andover having a slight edge over his opponent. The amount of yardage gained in this period was about the same, too. The Andover backfield was playing its hardest, and every man was on the job. Bradley's kicking featured the period.

Yale stiffened, however, in the third quarter, and pushed Andover to the limit. By line rushes mainly, the scrubs brought the ball close to the Andover goal line. Time after time the Yale backs went through Andover's line for gains of two, three or four yards. It seemed as if Andover could not hold them. Closer and closer came the ball to the Blue goal line. However, Andover rose to the emergency and finally stopped Yale on the seven-yard line, getting the ball on downs. One play of tackle was tried, which the second team forwards smothered, and then the ball was passed to Arthur Parisien, who was standing behind his own goal posts. Before he had time to move, he was tackled by an enemy forward and brought to the ground. That furnished Yale its first, last and only score of the game against Andover. In fact, it was the only time during the whole game that the Seconds came anywhere near the academy goal-posts. Andover tightened up after that, and kept the Yale team at a safe distance.

The last quarter was a good deal a repetition of the second one, neither team being able to add another score to its total. Andover had a slight edge over Yale, crashing through for small gains from time to time, and making a few first downs. A good many punts were exchanged in this period, as in the second quarter, and the game ended with each team fighting desperately to get another score.

Denmark's Alphabetical War.

There is a battle of the big and little letters now raging in Denmark. The Danish language, like the German, has hitherto adhered to the Middle-age practice of spelling its nouns with capital letters, but a progressive movement of growing strength demands the substitution of the little letters in conformity with English, French and other languages. The demand has aroused the fury of the conservative elements.

Now Minister of Education Appel has determined to introduce the small-letter practice in the schools. As in the Bolshevist reform of the Russian orthography and the Bulgarian changes, the big letter and the small letter have become symbols of political opinion.

Somewhat Mixed.

The justice of the peace in a town in Ohio, in pursuance of his duties, had to hear and judge the cases that were brought before him and also to perform occasional marriage ceremonies. He found it difficult to dissociate the various functions of his office.

Everything had gone smoothly until he had asked one bride: "Do you take this man to be your husband?"

The bride nodded emphatically.

"And you, accused," said the justice, turning to the bridegroom, "what have you to say in your defense?"

Japanese Editors Poorly Paid.

Japanese newspaper men work for small salaries, but efforts are being made by prosperous newspapers in Osaka to elevate the standard.

The Osaka Mainichi, which has a daily circulation of about 800,000, has made substantial increase in its existing scale of salaries. Together with a bonus distributed twice a year, actual pay is two to three times the specified salary

RED CROSS PLANS FOR COMING YEAR

Over $2,000,000 in Fund for War Sufferers—National Budget Is $5,543,077.

AID TO VETERANS STANDS FIRST

Expended $9,738,448 in Services to Mankind Last Year at Home and Abroad.

Washington.—With a budget of $5,543,077.81 for carrying out the program of service during the current fiscal year, beginning July 1, the American Red Cross announces that this amount was $4,195,370.41 less than was expended during the fiscal year ended last June 30. During that year expenditures reached a total of $9,738,448.22, of which amount $2,605,696.09 was devoted to relief of refugees in Greece who had been driven out of Asia Minor. In announcing the budget for the year, the statement from National Headquarters emphasized the fact that its extensive work at home and abroad depends almost wholly upon the nation-wide support of the organization through enrollment of membership in large numbers during the annual roll call, which will be in progress from November 11 to November 29 under the auspices of the 3,500 Chapters in the United States and throughout the world. These Chapters, it is pointed out, during the last fiscal year expended of their own funds approximately $3,920,000 in work for the men who wore the United States uniform during the World War, so that the estimate of some $15,000,000 expended during twelve months by the American Red Cross as a whole is considered conservative.

Soldier Service Stands First

From July 1, 1917, to June 30, 1923, the American Red Cross spent nationally and through its Chapters close to $164,000,000 in behalf of American soldiers who served in the war and their families. During last year the figure alone mounted to more than $5,866,255, and for the current fiscal year National Headquarters has set aside under the heading, "Assistance to Disabled ex-Service Men and Women," $2,035,834.20. The Chapters will continue to do their part, so that it may be predicted with confidence that again more than $5,500,000 will be disbursed in the large variety of services to the disabled men and women and their families—services for which the Government cannot provide and which reach the individual case with the sympathy and understanding only actual contact can insure. This work of the American Red Cross approaches the fifth anniversary of the Armistice, which ended the World War with only slight decrease in calls for service in the interest of the welfare and rehabilitation of those who suffered physical disability in the service of their country.

In the interest of the enlisted men serving in the Army and the Navy the budget provides $309,020 for the current year. This is obligatory under the Red Cross charter, for the organization must act in matters of voluntary relief and as a medium of communication between the people and their Army and Navy.

Domestic Program Extensive

The domestic operations of the American Red Cross comprise an accurate indicator of the continuing calls for expansion in all the established and authorized services. The budget aggregates $4,636,449.70, as against expenditures during the last year of $4,452,066.20. The abnormal demands in the foreign field in the last several years, however, have largely subsided, and in consequence $906,628.11 has been set for the 1923-24 budget under foreign operations. On this amount $394,303.91 is set aside for engagements which will close the work for the refugees in Greece, for whose amelioration $2,605,696.09 was expended up to June 30, when the American Red Cross withdrew, and the work was taken over under the control of the Greek government. For liquidation and completion of general relief in Europe the budget provides $100,000, and for American Junior Red Cross projects, foreign and insular, and assistance to Chapters listed under foreign operations.

Ready for Emergency Calls

The readiness of the American Red Cross to answer immediately with effective service in cases of emergency is an outstanding feature of its program that is universally recognized. During last year $525,000 was spent for relief in 110 disasters, which was $207,500 in excess of budget provisions. This year $400,000 has been appropriated for this service. Since 1881 the Red Cross has administered more than $20,000,000 in relief work following disasters.

Other budget items in the schedule for domestic operations include $1,282,524.20 for service and assistance to the 3,600 Chapters and their Branches, $80,000 for assistance to other organizations, particularly stressing child health activities; $194,600 for Junior Red Cross projects and service; $10,824.20 for assistance to Nurses' Training Schools, and for other activities $111,456.80. For supervision of service activities and general management of the entire American Red Cross less than $225,000 is allotted

110 DISASTERS IN YEAR ENLIST RED CROSS AID

Nearly $400,000 Spent in United States — Greek Refugee Work Completed.

For its preparedness to render relief through effective and generous aid to the sufferers from disaster, the American Red Cross is universally regarded as the one organization from which response to appeal for help is immediate. In the last year, according to the annual report of the Red Cross, its disaster relief operations were carried out in 110 localities in the United States. This work, with activities carried over from the previous year, required the expenditure in the United States of $397,468.04 by the American Red Cross, its Chapters and Branches. In the emergency following the defeat of the Greek forces in Turkey and the burning of the city of Smyrna, which entailed the relief of nearly 900,000 men, women and children, Red Cross National Headquarters expended $2,605,696.09. The food distributed in Greece aggregated 25,000 tons; garments, 809,000; blankets, 48,550; new shoes, 5,000 pairs; medical, hospital and sanitary supplies, 304 tons. In the feeding of the refugees there was listed upwards of 32,000 children under three years of age.

The disasters in the United States during the past year reported 240 persons killed, 991 injured, 12,691 rendered homeless. The total property loss was estimated at $20,710,000.

Relief of suffering caused by disasters of such magnitude as to overwhelm the resources of the communities in which they occur is fundamental to the charter of the American Red Cross. In addition to making appropriations from its treasury and assigning trained personnel to relief work, the Red Cross in disaster centralizes and makes more effective relief funds and supplies contributed by the country at large.

Since 1881 the Red Cross has administered more than $20,000,000 for the single purpose of disaster relief. That it may continue to accept the responsibilities which grave emergencies place upon the American Red Cross appeal is made for a nation-wide renewal of membership during the annual roll call, which opens on Armistice Day, November 11, and closes on Thanksgiving Day, November 29.

Life Saving Work Of Red Cross Corps Wars on Drownings

The insignia of the American Red Cross Life Saving Corps on the bathing apparel of men, women and youths is seen everywhere at favorite bathing places along the coasts, rivers, lakes and ponds. In its unrelenting campaign to reduce loss of life by drowning the Red Cross is making constant headway. The demands for instruction from organizations in all parts of the country were so numerous the past year that it was necessary to more than double the staff of Red Cross instructors. This work of training for water life-saving showed an enrollment of over 30,000 volunteers enlisted for duty on patrol, for rescue and resuscitation, all competent to instruct others in the standard water-safety methods. The Red Cross by request of the War Department gives water first aid training at the United States Military and Naval academies and in the military training camps for reserve officers and civilians. The four cash prizes awarded by the Red Cross last year for heroic rescues were conferred upon two girls, a boy and a man, indicating that the youths of the country stand well at the top in conserving life along our water courses.

Red Cross Field Of Action Covers All the World

Represented by 93,668 members, the American Red Cross penetrates to nearly every part of the world. The insular and foreign roll call statistics for the past year are a most conclusive manifestation of the Red Cross spirit carried into the most remote lands. In Europe there are 4,088 members, in Turkey, and active in the Constantinople Chapter, 3,545. China has an enrollment of 2,252; Africa, 136; India 224, and Australia, 29. Even Vladivostok, in frigid Siberia, has a live chapter with 100 members. The Philippine Islands can mobilize 38,747 under the Red Cross banner and Hawaii 7,863. The total funds raised through foreign and insular membership enrollment and sent to national headquarters in Washington mounted to $60,216.54, while an additional $33,350 was forwarded for the endowment fund of the American Red Cross. The high seas roll call in 1922 was an inspiring success. The Navy signed on 4,331 for the Red Cross and the merchant ships 4,141. Of the total membership outside the United States 83,990 are registered with chapters in foreign lands, the insular possessions and dependencies.

"I want to; therefore I can!" is the spirit that spurs the Red Cross worker in well doing.

RED CROSS MET TEST IN JAPAN FUND DRIVE

Spirit of Service Demonstrated in Readiness for Nation-wide Activity.

When President Coolidge by proclamation designated the American Red Cross as the medium through which contributions for relief of the Japanese earthquake sufferers should flow, the President's desire came as an order to the Red Cross. Immediately the entire machinery of the organization was put in motion and within 24 hours the fund campaign was moving with vigor in every part of the country.

This emergency test demonstrated the peacetime readiness of the Red Cross to cope with stupendous tasks in behalf of humanity. Within a month it had collected upwards of $10,250,000 in contributions, landed ten cargoes of supplies at Japanese ports and was keeping pace with relief requirements—all without a single dollar of the fund being spent for administration.

President Coolidge, in expressing his thanks to the people, said: "When the news of the tragedy in Japan first reached us, the American Red Cross, pursuant to a proclamation, asked the country for $5,000,000 to meet the great emergency. The answer to this appeal was prompt and generous; in less than two weeks a sum far in excess of the original goal was given."

The work of the Red Cross for Japan is expected to influence a very large enrollment of new recruits during the Roll Call, which starts Armistice Day.

Red Cross First Aid Standards Adopted In Great Industries

First aid in an emergency which assures the injured competent attention until the doctor arrives is making marked headway through the work of the Chapters of the American Red Cross. In populous centers 314 chapters conduct first aid classes and last year awarded 9,500 certificates to students. Eight big telephone companies have enlisted their workers in first aid classes, police and fire departments in large cities are making the course compulsory in their training schools, and through colleges and high schools large groups of students receive instruction. The Red Cross also gives this course through Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Y. M. C. A. and similar organizations, and its standard methods have been adopted by railroads, electric and gas companies, mines and in the metal industries. The aim of this Red Cross service is to cut down radically the average of 60,000 accidental deaths per year in the United States.

"Our country could secure no higher commendation, no greater place in history, than to have it correctly said that the Red Cross is truly American."
—President Coolidge.

WOOL TRADE ENTERTAINED

Luncheon Is Followed by Inspection of Model Village and Sports at Balmoral Field

About 300 members of the Boston Wool trade were the guests of William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company, last Friday at Shawsheen Village.

The gathering was for social purposes only and a pleasing program was arranged for the entertainment of the guests. There was a bountiful luncheon in the Shawsheen restaurant, after which there was an inspection of the Shawsheen Mills, wool storehouse, administration building, the Manor, Arden Trust-Merchant building and the residential sections. The outing closed with whippet races and boxing exhibitions on Balmoral field.

President Wood gave a brief address of welcome and personally met each guest. He was introduced to the assemblage by Nathaniel Perkins of Boston, secretary of the Wool Trade association. In extending his greetings Mr. Wood made it clear that the gathering was purely for social purposes, but said that he felt that he could not allow the occasion to pass without a few comments aside from mere words of welcome.

"The American Woolen company is the great individual user of wool in this section and among the largest consumers throughout the country," said Mr. Wood. He urged the co-operation of all in the trade, pointing out the great good accomplished by the large corporations engaged in business other than that of textiles.

"The wool growers, you men who are engaged in the wool trade, and the textile manufacturers are all entitled to a fair profit, but to no more, so that in the end the public may buy cloths at a fair price." He condemned the so-called "buying of wool on the sheep's back."

At the close of his remarks, Mr. Wood was given hearty applause. Mr. Wood was assisted in receiving by his son, Cornelius A. Wood.

Thomas Bredbury, agent of the Shawsheen Mills, accompanied the party through the plant, explaining the various processes. To a majority the inspection was an education, and to all it was a source of much interest.

The sports took place on Balmoral field, the first of which was a whippet race which required three heats and a final. The winner was Draper's "Bessie," with James Gilligan's "Harry" second, and Miss Ayer's "Old Blue" in third place.

In the first heat Gilligan's "Harry" won, with Draper's "Cloud" second. The second heat was captured by Draper's "Bessie" over Gilligan's "Pussy Cat."

Miss Ayer's "Old Blue" was winner of the third heat with Edington's "Shep" second.

In the final heat Miss Ayer's "Old Blue" had a commanding lead and should have been a winner but the dog turned around before the mark was reached and ran for the other dogs and so lost the race, the other two dogs flashing across the line, with "Bessie" first and "Harry" second.

Later on the race was repeated and the dogs came in in the same order.

Boxing bouts came next and Johnny Downes of South Boston acted as referee. He is boxing instructor at Phillips Andover.

The first bout brought Young Andrisano of Boston, New England amateur champion, and Young Tansey of Roxbury together and the boys had a spirited battle.

In the next event Pal Reed of Framingham and Johnny Robuk of Fall River had a lively mixup, Tommy Nee met Freddie Mitchell of Boston in three fast rounds. The weather was a little cool and made the boxers work hard to keep warm.

The guests left for Boston on the 4.30 train, and all expressed themselves as being deeply impressed with Shawsheen Village and the work being done there.

Women's Club Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Shawsheen Village Women's club will be held on Monday night, November 5, and will be given over to music. Miss Marion L. Abbott has been secured and will give various selections on the piano. Mrs. Grace M. Poole, president of the State Federation of Women's clubs, will sing "Just Suppose."

Mrs. Walter Terhan, tenth District Director of the Federation of Women's clubs, will be the guest of the club at this meeting.

The music committee in charge of this meeting is composed of Miss Martha Smith, Miss Margaret Curran, Mrs. Thomas E. Allen and Mrs. William A. Trow.

The hostesses for this meeting are: Mrs. George Dunnells, chairman, Mrs. Sewell N. Dunton, Miss Ruth Dunnells, Mrs. Albert W. Ennis, Dr. Agnes Fraser, Mrs. James Frazer, Mrs. Charles Frederickson, Mrs. Walter T. E. Freiwald, Mrs. William A. Gabeler, Mrs. George L. Gahm, Mrs. G. Howard Gerrish and Mrs. James Gillen.

Permission has been given by the president, Mrs. George H. Winslow, to a committee from the League of Women Voters of Andover to distribute leaflets before the meeting among the members of the Women's club. These leaflets are in connection with a drive the League is making for new members.

The committee is composed of: Mrs. Douglas Donald, Mrs. Cornelius A. Wood, Mrs. J. S. Livingstone and Miss Agnes Livingstone.

S. D. G. Meeting

The S. D. G. sewing club held their regular weekly meeting at the home of Mrs. Clarence W. Coolidge on Wednesday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in sewing for the hostess after which lunch was served.

Those present were: Mrs. Frederick W. Blanchard, Mrs. Luther Watson, Mrs. Harry M. Hill, Mrs. Arthur Ryder and Mrs. Clarence W. Coolidge.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Neil McLellan have moved to 10 Argyle street.

John Coggeshall of Providence has moved to 4 William street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. DeWolfe have moved to 8 Sutherland street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Currier have moved to 9 Kensington street.

James R. Mosher of Balmoral street, has purchased a Dodge touring car.

Claire McGrath of Kensington street, has recovered from a recent illness.

Miss Jean Gordon of Poor street has purchased a new Buick touring car.

Hector Keith of Haverhill street spent Wednesday in Boston, visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Pratt and family of North Easton have moved to 11 Kenilworth street.

Miss Elizabeth Barron has returned to her work in the Homestead Association office after a brief illness.

Miss Beatrice Kenyon of the Shawsheen Mill office attended the textile show in Boston, on Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fleming of Haverhill street attended the Hallowe'en party given by the C. D. of A. at the Lawrence C. Y. M. A. on Monday evening.

A large number attended the Hallowe'en dance in Balmoral hall on Wednesday evening. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion and Sinclair's Balmoral orchestra furnished the music.

Among those from Shawsheen who attended the Harvard-Dartmouth game last Saturday were: Mr. and Mrs. Theodore DeCamp, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. George, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hill, David R. Lawson, and Howard O. Frye.

Shawsheen-Abbot Game to be Replayed

Abbot Worsted's protest against Shawsheen was thrown out by the National Cup committee on account of their failing to conform with the cup rules and the game was ordered replayed at Forge Village on Saturday. Pat McDermott of the Shawsheen team will not be eligible to play as the committee found he was not properly signed.

Finances of American Woolen Company in Splendid Condition

In response to inquiries concerning the condition of the company and the outlook for future business, Mr. Wood issued the following statement on November 1:

At the risk of being accused of issuing too frequent interviews concerning the American Woolen company, but with the idea of acquainting the 35,000 stockholders of the company, approximately half of whom are common stock holders, with the real state of affairs, I can state that the condition of the company is in every respect highly satisfactory. Our sales this year have been above normal in spite of the curtailment elsewhere in the industry.

The American Woolen company is operating at 83 per cent capacity, which is far above the average for this time of the year. Relatively speaking we have fewer goods on hand than usual. The American domestic wool market is the lowest today in the world.

American owned wools are being shipped abroad to higher markets. This does not indicate lower prices for wool over here, and it would not be surprising if we had a higher raw material market after the turn of the year. This should have an influence on the goods for the coming season. I actually anticipate the greatest overcoating demand that the country has ever known, and there should be plenty of work for all the woolen machinery in the country.

The entire dividend for the common stock has already been earned this year. The finances of the company are in splendid condition. There is nothing more I can say to refute the irresponsible rumours designed to unsettle the confidence of stock holders.

S. D. G. Guests of Lynn Club

The S. D. G. Club of Shawsheen Village were entertained by the 1921 Sewing Circle of East Lynn, at a Hallowe'en dinner party Saturday evening at the camp of Mrs. Edna Turner in Peabody.

The camp was weirdly decorated for the occasion and merriment reigned supreme during the entire evening. The dining room decorations were very pretty and artistic. The table was arranged with orange candles and lighted pumpkins and laden with good things to eat. The dessert which was the feature of the evening, was in the form of a Hallowe'en pie well seasoned with favors in orange and black covering. A black cat gracefully rested in the center surrounded by cut flowers to which were attached strings which, when pulled, disclosed a favor tied to the end.

The evening was pleasantly spent in story telling and games.

Those present from Shawsheen were: Mrs. Harry M. Hill, Mrs. Clarence W. Coolidge, Mrs. Luther Watson, and Mrs. Frederick W. Blanchard. Those from Lynn were: Mrs. Ann Kidder, Mrs. Celia Chase, Mrs. Eva Bell, Mrs. Bessie Crowell, Mrs. Alice Swan, Mrs. Lura Horton, Mrs. Mae Patterson, Mrs. Grace Height, Mrs. Edna Turner, Mrs. Ethel Damon.

Community Supper Planned

The executive committee in charge of the Community Religious Services have arranged for a community supper to take place on Friday evening, November 9, at the Shawsheen Restaurant on Haverhill street. Supper will be served promptly at 6 o'clock.

Rev. George Hazelton Spencer of Boston, a very fine speaker, and one who is in great demand on such occasions, has been secured to speak on the appropriate subject of "Armistice Day."

Last year about two hundred people attended the supper and, with the increased population, it is hoped that a great many more will be present and take advantage of the opportunity to meet their fellow villagers.

Mrs. George H. Winslow is general chairman of the affair and the following committees are assisting her.

Cooking committee: Mrs. George Dunnells, Mrs. G. S. Chase, Mrs. Robert Todd, and Mrs. Fischer.

Serving and soliciting committee: Mrs. Clarence W. Coolidge, Mrs. James Ramsey and Mrs. Alex Morrison.

Publicity and ticket committee, Mr. M. K. Voorhees and Mr. E. B. Yale.

HALLOWE'EN CELEBRATION

Guests Enjoy Excellent Dinner and Dancing at Shawsheen Restaurant on Wednesday Evening

One of the most successful and enjoyable parties of the Hallowe'en season was the Hallowe'en dinner dance held at the restaurant of the Shawsheen Manor on Haverhill street, on Wednesday evening.

Guests were present from Boston, Lowell, Haverhill, Andover, Methuen, Lawrence, Burlington, Vermont, New York City and Shawsheen.

The tables were arranged around the hall and the space for dancing was effectively enclosed by four columns between which were strung multi-colored lights.

Orange and black crepe paper, black cats, pumpkins and autumn leaves were used in profusion, while in the center of the hall hung an enormous pumpkin.

An excellent dinner was served from 7 o'clock and dancing continued throughout the evening to the strains of Marion Chase's North Shore Players, who scored a big hit.

The hostesses for the occasion were: Mrs. Henry Bodwell, Andover; Mrs. Charles A. Hardy, Shawsheen; Mrs. Alfred E. Lang, Methuen; Mrs. George M. Wallace, Shawsheen; Mrs. Douglas Crawford, Andover; Mrs. Frank H. Hardy, West Andover; Mrs. George B. Sargent, Lawrence; Mrs. George H. Winslow, Shawsheen Village; Mrs. Louis S. Cox, Lawrence; Mrs. J. Harry Kidder, Andover; Mrs. M. K. Voorhees, Shawsheen; and Mrs. Cornelius A. Wood, Shawsheen.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Blades and two guests, Dr. and Mrs. Birdsall and six guests, Mr. and Mrs. Blume and two guests, Gordon Brown, F. Bradstreet and nine guests, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Barnard and five guests, Edward Cross, Jr., and sixteen guests, Maurice Curran and seven guests, Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Chandler and four guests, Mrs. George B. Sargent and Mrs. Louis S. Cox and four guests, Mrs. Crowell and seven guests, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Donald and eight guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. DeAcutis, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gillen, George Donovan and three guests, John Dawson and three guests, H. Edmonds and three guests, Sam Foster and guest, Howard O. Frye and sixteen guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Knight and Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Graham and four guests, Dr. and Mrs. Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hardy and four guests, W. B. Higgins and eight guests, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hardy and four guests, B. E. Horne and three guests, Mr. and Mrs. Augustine Horman and eight guests, William Hearme and three guests, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harris and seven guests, L. Robb and J. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Knowlton and four guests, J. Kennedy and two guests, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Livingstone and two guests, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Mahony, F. G. Moore, E. J. Nelligan and three guests, Mr. Schwarz and three guests, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Wallace and six guests, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius A. Wood and four guests, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Wade and four guests, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Yale and thirty guests.

X. I. E. Plan Dance

At the weekly meeting of the X. I. E. Girls' club held on Monday evening at the home of Miss Doris Coolidge, 26 Haverhill street, plans were completed for the dance to be held on Friday evening in Balmoral hall. It was announced that Sinclair's Balmoral orchestra would furnish the music and the following would be the matrons: Mrs. Clarence W. Coolidge, Mrs. Carlton Wilbur, Mrs. James Ramsey and Mrs. William Thompson.

After the meeting a buffet luncheon was served by the hostess.

The following members were present: Misses Evelyn Lawson, Irma Coolidge, Doris Coolidge, Edith Bredbury, Dorothy Ramsey, Florence Wilbur, Constance Ramsey and Jean Thompson.

Tea at Balmoral Hall

The Shawsheen Village Women's club served tea Friday afternoon at Balmoral hall from 3 to 5 o'clock. All members of the club were guests and the various committees acted as hostesses.

Mrs. Augustine Horman and Mrs. Bernard Harig of the entertainment committee poured.

Western Union Opens Office in Balmoral Building

The Western Union has opened an office in the Balmoral building, Room 6. Formerly there was a charge for a messenger from Andover, but with the new office in the village no such charge will be made.

American Woolen Company Offices Moving to Shawsheen

The American Woolen company has started to move its office from Boston to Shawsheen Village. Two departments quit work in Boston Wednesday afternoon, and reported for work Thursday in the new offices.

The departments now located at Shawsheen Village are: Transportation department, George L. Graham and staff; Fourth Assistant treasurer, James G. Hill and staff, and Purchasing Agent, Granville K. Cutter and staff.

Other offices will be moved in the near future, and the entire Boston personnel will be located at Shawsheen in a comparatively short time.

Notice

Who lost a silk hat marked W. E. H., at the Hallowe'en party at Shawsheen Village last Wednesday evening? I have this gentlemen's hat and I presume he has mine. Please call W. B. Norton at the Shawsheen Manor, and we will arrange an exchange.

Hallowe'en Prank Unwittingly Played

A hurry call from Shawsheen garage, about three o'clock Thursday morning, requested Officer Saunders to watch out for a man who had made way with their gasoline tank hose. Having purchased ninety cents worth of gasoline he laid down a dollar saying, "Never mind the change," and hurried away. After his departure, the garage attendant found the gasoline tank a wreck.

Within a few minutes the officer identified the offending automobile proceeding toward Boston with ten feet of hose trailing in the rear. The driver was stopped, and could not be convinced that he had done anything unusual until he stepped from his car and saw his unexpected freight.

Shawsheen Leads in Industrial League

By their defeat of American Woolen on Saturday at Balmoral field, Shawsheen now leads the Industrial league. The Village team was far superior to the Woolen team and easily won by six goals.

The cancelling of the Shawsheen-Abbot Worsted game during the week met with much disappointment among the fans who were all set to witness the big struggle; however, some quick action on the part of secretary Albert Millington brought the Shawsheen-American Woolen teams together and it was evident that the fans were pleased that the week-end had not passed without a game. The attendance was good when the teams took the field.

The Shawsheen officials made several changes in the team from that which appeared against the Abbots one week ago, Hughes taking the place of Hurrell in goal; Whitehead came into the team along with Billy Ross as fullback. Walker was given a rest after his great game the week previous. The halfbacks remained unchanged. In the forwards, Law was dropped for Gair, while Smith who is on the injured list was given a rest. Timoney took his place.

The Woolens tried out a new man in the person of Navin, but his display was very disappointing on the right flank.

On the Shawsheen side the whole eleven played good clean ball, with Corrigan the outstanding player. Timoney also played a good game and will no doubt take McDermott's place in the replay with Abbot Worsted on next Saturday.

The Shawsheen team got the jump, for inside of three minutes Corrigan had the ball in the net, which came about from a misunderstanding betewen Butler and Higginbotham. The Woolens came very close to equalizing when Hulse swung the ball across for Cairney to put in a fine run and drive that struck the upright and rebounded for Ross to clear. It was a grand effort. The second and third goal for Shawsheen came as gifts while the fourth before the internal, was none the less when Butler played the man instead of the ball, which left Corrigan open to net. Mitchell's fine run in this period featured; he looked all over a scorer when he was bowled over just in the act of shooting, that passed out for a corner.

For Shawsheen, Ross and Walker made a good pair of backs. Watson and Thompson played a grand game as intermediates, while the whole of the front line were conspicuous throughout.

For the Woolens, Wallace kept a good goal. Marsden and Butler played a big game on the defense, the former giving one of his soundest displays.

Barclay was the pick of the halfbacks, while Mitchell and Cairney excelled most in the front line.

The game ended in an easy victory for Shawsheen by the score of 6 goals to 1, putting Shawsheen at the head of the league.

Bowling Green Club Meet

The Shawsheen Bowling Green club held a short meeting last Friday evening at the home of the president, Robert Williams, Lowell street. Many interesting subjects were discussed and the past season reviewed. Plans were also talked over for a party to be held sometime this month, the date to be announced later.

BOWLING

Shawsheen Mill League

Friday night in the Shawsheen Mill league, the Carpenters defeated the Power House, taking all four points. Harvey had high single with 114. The Village team took three from the Garage. Keith of the Village had a high single of 122 and a triple of 324. The office force were defeated by the Dressing. Lamontagne was high with 299.

Meeting of Boy Scouts

The regular weekly meeting of the Shawsheen Boy Scouts was held on Friday evening at the Boy's club on Haverhill street. Each Scout was requested to tell of the good deeds done by him during the week and some very interesting accounts were heard. Military drill was also held after which games were played.

A meeting was also held on Monday evening for the benefit of boys who wished to pass the test.

Community Services

Rev. Arthur Wheelock of the Free church was the speaker at the Shawsheen Community Religious services on Sunday evening and the subject of his talk was "The Meaning of Congregationalism."

Rev. C. Norman Bartlett of the Baptist church will be the speaker for next Sunday evening. Services commence at 7.30 o'clock and are held in Post-office hall.

CARONEL COURT APARTMENTS

Coal and Ice Man Eliminated in Andover's 20-Apartment House, Being Built at Main Street and Punchard Avenue.

The stone cellar walls have been completed and this week the bricklayers start laying the Flemish bond courses for Andover's first apartment house, Caronel Court Apartments, being erected by Charles M. Carroll of Lawrence and John F. O'Connell, of Andover, at the corner of Main street and Punchard avenue. For the first time, passers-by are enabled to get an idea of the general architectural lay-out and can see the outlines of the court containing 6500 square feet around which the building will be constructed.

The building will contain 20 apartments and is the culmination of special studies, including the preparation of two sets of plans by different architectural firms in order to get the ideal arrangement for a residential community. The owners desired not only to preserve the atmosphere of the district, but to erect a building about the same height as those near by. Therefore a low, well spread out structure has been evolved, which due to the great size of the court, gives equal light and air on all sides for each apartment.

The plan adopted is that of Ashton, Huntress & Alter, associate architects of Lawrence. Another plan by Edward B. Stratton, whose beautiful apartment houses are located in and around Boston, called for the construction of three separate units, also around a central court, but this will be held in abeyance for some other site. It was the original plan of the owners to erect their apartment house in Lawrence on the Lee property on East Haverhill street, Prospect Hill, but they were obliged to give up the plan because the City declared an intention of seizing the site for a school. Later the City recalled its vote to seize the Lawrence property, thus releasing the owners' funds, following which the original Andover plan prepared by Architect Stratton, which called for only 12 apartments, was discarded and the more elaborate 20-apartment structure adopted. The building is Colonial in style and will be of brick and stucco.

As far as living conditions are concerned, dwellers in Caronel Court Apartments will have absolutely no worry. There will be no coal-man, as the building will be heated by oil on plans prepared by the Petroleum Heat and Power Company, of Boston, the largest makers of oil-heating devices; oil to be furnished by the Standard Oil Company. There will be no ice-man, dirty floors or overflowing pans, as each apartment will be equipped with individual refrigerating plants, including the chest. There will be complete janitor service and garbage will be incinerated.

The largest apartments will be in the front on Main street; both of the lower

WAR MEMORIALS

Mr. Charles Moore Gives Illustrated Lecture Before Phillips Club Monday Evening.

Charles Moore of Washington, D. C., an authority on the subject of town planning and improvement, Chairman of the Nati nal Commission of Fine Arts and of the National War Memorials Committee, gave an extremely interesting talk on war memorials before the members of the Phillips Club in Peabody House on Monday evening.

The lecture was profusely illustrated with views of some of the most celebrated statuary and memorials both in the United States and abroad. Mr. Moore's talk was full of constructive suggestions for the town of Andover and after the pictures had been shown, the meeting was opened to a general discussion.

There are six different kinds of War Memorials: namely, monuments, arches, tablets, fountains, bridges and buildings. Andover must first decide which type of memorial is most desirable, and having determined this, the most suitable location for the selected style should be chosen.

The site at the foot of School street, between the two churches was suggested as the most desirable position for a monument, as the natural setting would lend itself admirably to the dignity and permanency of the memorial. Another possibility is the erection of a simple but well proportioned bandstand in the park, developing the grounds so as to set the stand off appropriately. The old Stimpson's bridge at Marland Village could be replaced by a more substantial and a more artistic structure and dedicated as a war memorial. An arch might be placed where the old toll gate used to be—a fountain which could be both ornamental and useful might be built in the Square. Many other suggestions were offered.

Mr. Moore said that the possibilities of a splendid War Memorial for Andover were unlimited, and suggested that a definite budget be established from which to work. His speech was in substance as follows:

The impulse to build monuments is older than civilization and is universal among mankind. France, unlike other nations, commemorates her defeats; never her victories. The wars of Napoleon ended for him in humiliation and exile; the great arch in Paris represents the patriotism, the sacrifices and the indomitable courage of the French people. The structure itself, dominating the

AMERICAN LEGION BAZAAR

Harvest Supper and Sale Attracts Large Gathering in Beautifully Decorated Hall on Thursday Afternoon and Evening.

The Town hall was resplendent in red, white and blue and thronged with visitors, in spite of the inclement weather during yesterday afternoon and evening on the occasion of the annual Legion bazaar.

Decorators had done their utmost to transform the hall with a generous use of bunting and the American flag, and against this background most of the booths were also decorated in the national colors. The two Legion booths were in blue and gold, the Legion colors, and the booth of St. Augustine's church was beautifully decorated in blue.

One side of the hall was screened off with young pine trees for a supper room and from five o'clock to eight was a scene of the greatest activity. The committee in charge had prepared a generous amount of excellent food but were much hampered by the restricted space in which they attempted to serve the crowd who desired to patronize the Harvest supper. The menu consisted of beans and brown bread, cold meats, potato salad, various kinds of pies and coffee.

The supper committee consisted of Mrs. John Henderson, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Harry Gouck, Mrs. Timothy McCarthy, Mrs. Catherine Eastwood, Mrs. Joseph Miller, Mrs. Mary Garside and Mrs. Thomas Dea.

Mrs. David Hartigan had charge of the waitresses. Those who were chosen to serve were Misses Jennie Barrett, Mollie Churchill, Moira Murphy, Dorothy Hayes, Natalie Page, Dolores O'Connell, Isabel Sirois, Anna Robertson, Alice Welch, Marie Sirois, Mae Simmons, Charlotte Collins, Ethel Polgreen, Emma Cashan and Eleanor Polgreen.

The various tables and those in charge:

DEATH LURKS AT CORNER

Harding and Main Street Again Scene of Accidents. Man Killed, Woman Seriously Injured.

Elmer E. Davis of 4 Harding street was fatally injured on Saturday evening about 6.30, when he was struck by an electric car near his home at the corner of Main and Harding streets, and died before he reached the Lawrence General hospital, where he was being taken by William Waycott, who was passing in an automobile at the time.

It is believed by Mr. Davis' family that he became confused by the headlight of the car, but nothing definite as to the cause of the accident can be obtained, as the only witness was a small girl, who, badly frightened by what she saw, could give no coherent account.

Medical Examiner Victor A. Reed of Lawrence, who viewed the body, reported that Mr. Davis had fractures of the pelvis and right forearm and bruises all over the body.

Mr. Davis was 62 years of age, and had been employed as a carpenter in the Everett mills of Lawrence.

At the time of the accident his wife was at an entertainment being giving by the Lafalot club of West Andover, and she had to be informed during play that her husband had been seriously hurt. Everett Lundgren took Mrs. Davis to the hospital in his car, where it was found that Mr. Davis had passed away.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Annie Davis, there are three sons who survive, Charles W. Davis, Elmer E. Davis and Sumner F. Davis.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon at 1.30, at the late home, Rev. C. W. Henry of Christ church conducting the services. Burial was in the Spring Grove cemetery.

Miss Margaret Phillips, employed at the home of H. Bradford Lewis of Hidden road, suffering from fractures of both legs and an arm, a contusion of the head and multiple

Inspire Citizenship

In connection with the showing of "Columbus," the first of the Chronicles of America subjects at our local theater, Thursday, November 15, it is interesting to note that the motive which inspired these productions was the desire to promote good citizenship. It is the belief of Yale University Press, producers of the "Chronicles of America" films released by Pathe, that citizenship is immensely stimulated by a vivid and intelligent interest in the greatness of one's country's past. The thirty-three Chronicles of America subjects will embody the high spots, so to speak, in the story of American achievement, from the discovery of the New World down to the close of the Civil War. They will show those phases of our past which explain the significance of our present and inspire faith in our future.

Actual human life contains the greatest of all drama, and when that drama revolves around events of world significance, the peak of dramatic interest is achieved. The life and achievements of Christopher Columbus and the relation he bears to every American citizen adds to the entertainment value of "Columbus," directed by Edwin L. Hollywood, with principal roles enacted by Fred Eric, Dolores Cassinelli, Robert Gaillard and others.

LAWRENCE COLONIAL

If you had expected to inherit a fortune and you found that a young man whom you did not know had inherited that fortune ahead of you, what would you do? Marry the boy? Not, of course, if you were a man. But in this case the disappointed one really is a man, and yet it is possible for him to marry the one who has inherited the money. The young man is a girl—but Larry Delevar, who has planned to use the fortune he had expected to inherit from his father in a steamboat venture, is quite crest-fallen when he learns that he has lost.

The story is that of "Little Old New York" which Harold Hevia's Colonial players will present for the fifth week of their season at the Colonial theatre, Lawrence, beginning next Monday. It will be another big hit—just as "Six Cylinder Love" is a big hit this week.

It will be interesting to know that Miss Mildred Dana, the delightful leading woman, will be seen in the part of a boy in this brilliant comedy that was written by Rita Johnson Young. The original production was a big success, and the recent showing of the screen story with Marion Davies as the star was good, too. And it is just as big a hit in stock. William Naughton, Mildred Dana, Louis Ancker, Louis Albion, Anice Ives, Isabelle Leonard, Suzanne Jackson, Jack Waverly and the other favorites will interpret this play in a manner that will please you highly.

You will see the New York of the earlier days, before it had grown to its present size, before many inventions had been perfected, before many of the present fortunes had been accumulated. You will see, among the characters, John Jacob Astor, founder of the now famous family, and Cornelius Vanderbilt, a name now equally famous, and others. It is a unique play in many ways. There will be performances every night and on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons. Seats are now selling.

Schick Test Given in Parochial School

The Schick test to ascertain whether or not they are susceptible to diphtheria, was given to two hundred pupils at the parochial school on Thursday of this week. The results will be known in a few days, after which it is probable that those who are found to be susceptible to the disease will receive the vaccine treatment, rendering them immune from any possible contagion.

Cards have been distributed throughout the public schools, in order to obtain the written consent of parents to have their children receive the test. Many of these cards have been returned, and it is probable that a large proportion of the public school children will be given the test.

TALK ON WAR MEMORIALS

most complete and best ordered city in the world, typifies the soul of France. It contains in superlative degree all the elements which constitute the true war memorial of a people.

Probably the world today could not produce the equal of the Arch of Triumph in Paris; but those elements which give it distinction must be found in every true war memorial, be it great or small, in city or in country town, in Europe or in America.

The first of these elements is the location. The Arch is placed on the great line of buildings and connecting parks which form the backbone, or central axis, of Paris. Like the dome of the United States Capitol, it is located at the intersection of several avenues, so that it forms an object of interest as one approaches it from each of many points.

In Washington the memorial to Abraham Lincoln also occupies a point of vantage. It too forms the ending of the great composition which, beginning with the Capitol and carrying on through the monument to Washington, forms the main axis of the city.

It is the good fortune of the Capital of the United States that it was planned from the beginning as a work of art, and was provided with such points as give distinction to Paris. Most American cities and towns were not planned in advance, but have grown up in haphazard fashion; and there is difficulty in finding or creating a center on which to locate a memorial. Kansas City has found and utilized such a commanding location; but most of the larger cities are still groping for a suitable site.

In the smaller towns and villages there are public squares or intersections of streets or roads which may be adapted to the purpose. In towns often the one commanding space is already occupied by a Civil War monument and a second site must be selected. In such cases it is necessary carefully to plan so that the two monuments shall live in peace one with the other. If the Civil War monument is bad, as most of them are, the new memorial should be placed beyond the pernicious influence of the old one. At any rate the first consideration should be given to the location, for on that the design and character of the monument depends.

The second element is the design. If the monument is to be lastingly satisfactory, the design must be original. The vast majority of Civil War monuments are soldiers of granite or metal, turned out by the stonecutter or the foundryman from a stock design. Any person who takes the trouble to compare one of these figures with a real man notices at once how unlike the so-called art is to nature. The granite soldiers wear trousers furrowed like a newly plowed field; the lock of the gun is necessarily exaggerated out of all semblance to the real thing in order to accommodate the design to the hard stone; a stump is introduced for no known reason; the eyes have the unnatural stare of a glass-eye; and then the figure is perched on a column which makes it seem too small. As a result the novelty soon wears off and the monument, which should embody the most sacred feelings of the community, becomes a laughing stock and a subject for jibes. Instead of teaching a lesson of patriotism to the younger generations, it is to them a subject of derision. It is only another object from the bargain counter; and so by reason of its inherent badness it defeats its purpose.

We of today laugh at the grotesque figures of the soldiers of the Civil War, with their strange uniforms, whether Union or Confederate. Will not the Doughboy of the World War, with his clumsy helmet, his sagging belt and the other burdens of his equipment seem even more grotesque to the coming generations? And yet we are setting up Doughboys all over the land

In any case where the interest in a statue depends on the portrayal of the garb, rather than the human body, time quickly throws the production on the scrap-pile. A sculptor of genius may make the hero shine through his clothes; but geniuses are rare; whereas sculptors who make lay-figures are as common as sparrows.

Why use a statue for a memorial? A good sculptor commands from $5,000 to $25,000 for a single figure. Indeed the mechanical work alone, if well executed, costs about $5,000. Instead of a poor statue that must fail to interest the next generation, why not use some other form?

Half a century ago every community had its flag-pole. Today few towns have flagpoles. Yet there is nothing that so stirs the blood of a red-blooded man or woman as does the flag of the United States—when properly displayed. We have become careless about the use of the flag. We use it for drapery and for decoration. Even the War Department defies its own regulations and covers the fronts of buildings with looped-up flags. Old Glory should float free on its staff. You cannot pay too much respect to the Nation's Standard.

A steel pole of sufficient height for community use, ornamented with a bronze base bearing inscription and names, can be erected for approximately $4,000. A steel pole without visible joints, well tapered, costs about $1,000. This is not a minimum; and there is no maximum. The three flagpoles in front of the Union Station in Washington, cost $7,000 each, but costs have been cheapened by newly invented processes. The memorial flag-pole at Duluth, with the seated figure of a warrior, cost many times that amount. But $4,000 is the price the writer has arranged to pay for a flag-pole 90 feet high, designed by the leading firm of American architects, and executed in the best manner.

In case a flag-pole shall be the choice, care should be taken that the pole shall stand alone without guys; that it shall be free from ugly joints and have a good taper from base to top. The standard flag-pole now used by the War Department at posts and military cemeteries is a bad example of the steamfitter's art. Also, the size of the flag should be in proportion to the pole; and on occasions of celebration an especially large and fine flag should be flown.

There are many forms suited for war memorials. A fountain either in a park or by the wayside, simple or elaborate; a village green well laid out and well kept; a gateway, monumental in character; a stained-glass window, are among the appropriate objects.

The tablet, of course, is the most common form used. Here some words of caution are necessary. In a short time a bronze tablet, placed out of doors, becomes simply a black spot on marble, granite or boulder; and is unpleasant to the eye. It is better to cut the inscription in the stone. A marble tablet with an inscription that attracts interest is preferable. The marble may be white or colored. The lettering should be Roman characters cut V-shape. This is the letter and the cutting used on the World War cemetery stones both in this country and in England. Never put battle scenes on bronze tablets. They are beyond the range of the sculpture of today.

The form most used in England is the cross in stone, set up at the crossroads, in the town square, or in the cemetery. The graves of the boys who fell in France were marked with the cross—the cross of sacrifice. It is a misfortune that the white wooden cross which embodies so many memories, cannot be put into marble for all headstones marking World War graves; but stone when cut in the form of the wooden cross would break too easily, and therefore the present headstone has been adopted, much as one would have preferred the cross as marking the sacrifice of life for a cause. But this fact does not preclude the use of the cross as a general memorial; and among all forms the cross is significant and appropriate in the highest degree. It does not much matter what form the memorial takes, provided, the thing itself is well done and is imbued with the national memorial spirit.

There is one reason why a fine pole, flying the emblem of the United States is singularly appropriate. It expresses the spirit of our Nation. There are large sections of this country where one sees no symbols of the United States of today. The generation that fought the Civil War has passed away. It was my good fortune to know personally, a considerable number of Confederate heroes—Governor Harris of Tennessee, Governor Vance of North Carolina, Governor Barbour of Virginia, General Gordon, General Joe Wheeler among them. After the decision of arms was made, no men more loyal to the United States could be found. With them the dead past had buried its dead. Their eyes looked to the future. Now that they are gone, those who came after them too often are concerned rather with the memory of the past than with the hope of the future. We have the Spanish War and the World War, both wars of the Nation, to reunite all the people and to set every face to the front. It is fine to keep green the memory of our dear ones; but there is the living present whose problems must be met daily and hourly in the workshop and the field. So every memorial that is worthy the name, should look more to the future than to the past.

The World War was fought to preserve civilization. Going through the Danger Zone in 1918, on a ship carrying thousands of our eagerly awaited boys, I know the spirit which actuated them, know that they were idealists, crusaders, lovers to the death of peace and civilization, and above all loyal to their own United States.

It is the spiritual quality, the idealistic feeling, that should be inherent in every war memorial. Just as in the splendid Arch in Paris, pulses the soul of the French nation, so in every war memorial we erect, no matter how simple, there should inhere the feeling of sacrifice for an ideal and of patriotic devotion to our common country.

Police Court Notes

John T. Berry and John T. Timony of Andover were each given a suspended sentence of a year in Shirley school, in Lowell district court last Friday, for unlawful use of an automobile owned by a Lowell man Randall Hurley was sentenced to the Lyman school. The youths were arrested in Reading about two weeks ago.

Arthur P. Stinson of Millis was fined $25 at a session of police court for driving while under the influence of liquor. While operating an automobile on Sunday, the police say he ran into the railing at Stimpson's bridge, doing considerable damage to his car.

William Baxter of Pearson street, charged with assault on a Ballardvale girl, pleaded guilty and was bound over to the grand jury, January term of court, in the sum of $1000 which was furnished by his brother. The assault was committed last Friday night when Baxter accompanied the girl to her home following a dance and is alleged to have taken place in a lonely part of the road. The girl fought her assailant and when she screamed it is said that he beat her on the face. The local police were notified and Baxter was arrested Saturday morning by Chief of Police Frank M. Smith.

Before Judge C. J. Stone, William A. Robinson of Mattapan was tried Tuesday afternoon for driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor. He was found guilty and fined $25. Robinson was arrested at Harding street Monday evening. Ray M. Wilson of Watertown was tried on the same charge, was found guilty and fined $25. Wilson was arrested on the Reading road Monday afternoon.

Evidence pointing to Arthur Josselyn of North Reading as the person responsible for the fire at the Gould farm on Wednesday, October 31, caused his arrest last week. He has been sent to the Danvers hospital for observation.

Todd Is Elected Fire Captain

Henry Todd, one of the members of the fire department, was elected captain Tuesday evening at a meeting of the members of the department. He will fill the position formerly held by J. Fred Coles, who recently moved away from town. Mr. Todd has been a member of the fire department for about five years, and is the approved choice of the men on the force.
